4 Bids Accepted By IBOP's Board For New Building

The Executive Board of the International Brotherhood of Operative Potters has approved bids totaling $337,067 for a new headquarters building on Route 7 near Beaver Local High School after ruling out an attempt by 22 local unions to force a vote of the trade on the construction program.

Potters Construction Co. of St. Clair Plaza will be given the general contract for the building and driveways and parking areas for a total of $218,990, the IBOP said.

OTHER CONTRACTS went to: Firestone Electric Co. of Salem, electrical work, $30,326; Hall Plumbing & Heating Co. of East Liverpool, heating, air conditioning and plumbing, $86,000, and Horton Pump Service, for a well, $1,751.

Approximately nine months will be required to complete the project after ground is broken, the IBOP announced. Atty. Paul Tobin, as counsel for the Brotherhood, will supervise award of the individual contracts. Robert F. Beatty of East Liverpool is the architect.

The union pointed out the building program was sanctioned by delegates at the last international convention in Montreal, Canada, in July 1959. Estimates issued by the IBOP last August fixed the cost of the building at $342,015, including $292,656 for the building proper.

HOWEVER, THE first set of contract bids was rejected in January by the Executive Board, the union explained. Plans and specifications were revised and a new set of bids was obtained, resulting in award of the contracts.

The union said building funds totaling approximately $300,000 have been placed in escrow in the Potters Savings & Loan Co. and the Central Federal Savings & Loan Association of Wellsville. Fifty per cent of the deposit will draw interest for the first six months while the building is under construction and the other half will be used to pay bills falling due under the contracts, the IBOP said.

Since the new building will not be ready for occupancy by the time the 1960 international convention opens in June in Seattle, the Executive Board expects to allow the present headquarters on W. 6th St. to remain in use until a future convention decides upon disposition of the building, the union said.

IN CONNECTION with award of the contracts, the IBOP announced that the Executive Board ruled out 6 of 11 resolutions forwarded to the international headquarters by local unions, seeking a referendum on the building plan.

As the union's constitution requires that at least eight local unions must submit valid resolutions to force a vote of the trade in such a case, there will be no referendum, the IBOP said.

"Only five of the locals had complied with constitution law by forwarding the list of signatures of

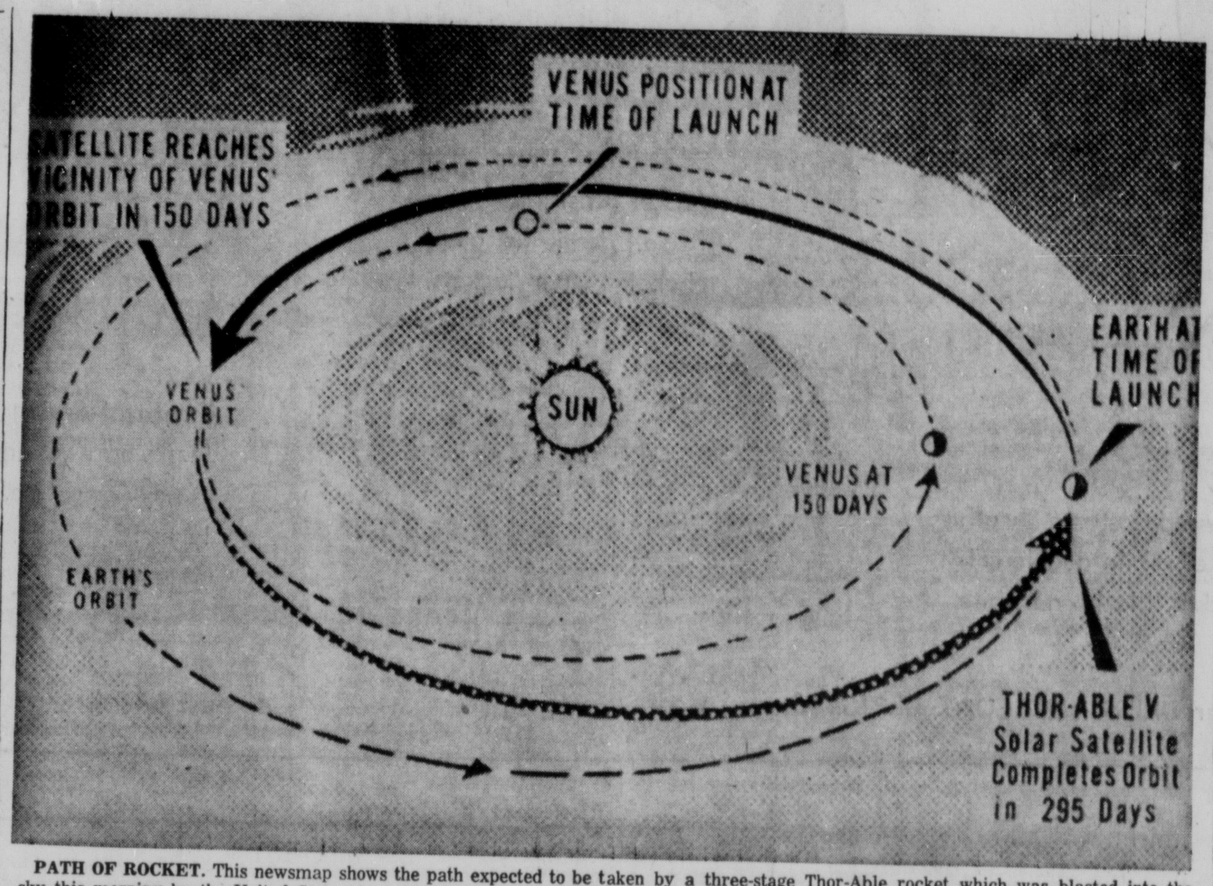
U.S. Rocket Has Entered Orbit Aimed To Carry It Around Sun



PATH OF ROCKET. This newsmap shows the path expected to be taken by a three-stage Thor-Able rocket which was blasted into the sky this morning by the United States from Cape Canaveral, Fla. It has a beachball-sized interplanetary "radio station" aimed toward an orbit around the sun. (UPI Telephoto)

'Beachball' Is Between Earth, Venus

Achieved Sufficient Velocity To Escape Gravitational Pull

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States launched a new space probe toward an orbit around the sun between the paths of earth and Venus today. Three hours later scientists reported success.

The beachball-sized package of instruments was launched at 8 a.m. EST from the missile test center at Cape Canaveral, Fla., propelled by the 165,000-pound thrust of a three-stage Thor-Able rocket.

After evaluation of early data radioed back from the 26-inch instrument-packed sphere, scientists of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said it had achieved sufficient velocity to escape the earth's gravitational pull and had entered an orbit that will take it 74,700,000 miles from the sun at its nearest approach.

The 90-pound probe, called Pioneer V, is designed to explore space between Venus and the earth and to test the feasibility of communicating with future manned and unmanned space vehicles at distances up to 50 million miles.

NASA officials announced shortly after 11 a.m. that the probe had been freed from its carrier rocket at a velocity of 24,869 miles per hour, and that this exceeded by 575 miles an hour the speed necessary to place the space messenger in orbit around the sun. It was within 150 miles per hour of the planned velocity.

They said the pathway of the space probe would take it 18 million miles closer to the sun than the orbit of Venus, and that it would reach its closest approach to the sun in its first swing around the sun about five months from today.

The plan had been to put the probe within 67 million miles of the sun at its nearest approach.

Announcement that all three stages of the rocket had fired came only 10 minutes after launching.

Then in another 10 minutes scientists reported that ground stations were tracking the probe normally.

And at 8:25 a. m. space agency scientists in Washington said the instrument packed payload had separated from the third stage on schedule and indications were the probe had achieved the velocity of 25,200 miles an hour required to escape the earth's gravitational pull.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said all stations were receiving clear signals from the probe as it winged through space. It said the main station at Jodrell Bank at Manchester, England, had received a "very good signal."

A space agency official in Washington said at 8:25 a. m. EST that "things look real good" for success of the probe. He reported that tracking stations at Cape Canaveral, Blossom Point, Md., and Millstone Hill, N.H., had picked up the probe as expected if the shot were going according to plan.

It may be two or three hours before it can be determined whether the rocket was on its intended course for an endless journey through space.

Explosion Of Atlas Ends Success Streak

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —The explosion of an Atlas missile has ended one of the most amazing success streaks in U. S. rocket history.

The Atlas blew apart in an attempt Thursday night to launch it on a 5,000-mile flight, shattering a string of 21 straight good shots for this intercontinental range missile.

The 85-foot giant rose only a few feet from its pad when it toppled over and was ripped by tons of exploding fuel.

Air System Rigged Up In Coal Pit

Dense Smoke Slows Rescue Efforts For 18 Trapped Miners

LOGAN, W. Va. (AP)—Rescue workers, stymied momentarily by thick, blinding smoke, today hauled pipes and wooden planks into the mine where 18 men have been trapped for more than four days by fire and rock slides.

State Mines Director Crawford L. Wilson said the pipes and planks would be used to rig a makeshift ventilating system to clear the air and permit the rescue teams to battle on the remaining 1,200 or so feet to the spot where the marooned miners are believed to be.

There has been no word from the 18 since noon Tuesday, when a telephone connection between them and the outside was broken.

Wilson said he hoped to have the ventilating system rigged by noon and to start flushing the air by early afternoon.

He said the fact that the air in the mine was not ventilating normally offered promise that the stranded men had rigged a bulkhead and could be safe from the stifling smoke and deadly carbon monoxide that has plagued rescue workers.

With each anxious hour, hope gave way to uncertainty. And uncertainty yielded to the dismal reality that "time is running out."

Those were Wilson's words Thursday night after a six-hour inspection of the shaft and the tunnel where the tense drama is being waged.

"I am very deeply concerned because of the time element and we are working against a limit," he said.

Then, two hours later he acknowledged grimly, "We still have a heat problem." With that, the veteran official went back to help direct the fight underground.

There still were rays of hope, however.

Wilson said the intense heat in the tunnel walls was cooling off somewhat. That meant it would probably be several hours more before crews could venture into a passageway leading to the men who are three to four miles from the shaft opening.

Another favorable factor: among the trapped men is an expert. He is William Donaldson, a safety inspector who happened to be with them when the fire broke out about 8:30 a.m. Tuesday at the Holden 22 mine of the Island Creek Coal Co., near this southern West Virginia city.

Pupils Unhurt In School Bus And Car Crash

30 Riding Vehicle Involved In Wreck Blamed On Snow

An estimated 30 pupils escaped injury in an accident this morning at 8:15 on the Ferndale Rd., between Newell and New Cumberland involving a Hancock County school bus making its morning trip to school.

Sheriff's deputies said high banks of snow along the roadway probably caused the collision between the 1951 model Diamond-T bus and the 1955 auto of Mrs. Betty Maxine Collins, 28, of New Cumberland R. D. 2.

The bus, operated by Allen S. Fields Jr., 37, of 906 Ridge Ave., New Cumberland, was proceeding to New Cumberland schools after making its morning pickup in the rural areas.

The bus was going up a grade and Mrs. Collins was approaching in the opposite direction at a low rate of speed when the mishap occurred, deputies said.

They blamed high mounds of snow pushed up by a grader for the sideswiping.

Wellsville Reports 2 Crashes In 15 Minutes

Two auto collisions were reported within 15 minutes in the same vicinity in Wellsville Thursday afternoon, police said.

At 4:15 p. m. at 18th St. and Clark Ave., Carl Tyson Jr. of Baden opened the cab door on his truck and it struck the right rear fender of a passing car driven by Dexter Messer, 1802 Buckeye Ave., officers reported.

Cars operated by Walter M. West of Dennison and Lydia E. Kirk of Salineville collided at the intersection of Aten and Clark Aves., police said.

Auto, Truck Collide In Hanoverton Area

A car driven by Shirley Charles Short, 26, of R. D. 1 was headed east about a mile from Route 9 when he struck a beer truck driven by Frank James Morgione, 23, of Youngstown.

Senate Turns Down Move To Limit Debate

Eyes Plan To Extend Penalty Provisions In Integration Cases

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate takes up today a proposal that efforts to obstruct court orders in labor and other cases carry the same penalty as similar actions in school integration cases.

The proposal by Sen. Frank J. Lausche (D-Ohio) would remove much of the sting felt by Southerners from one section of the administration's civil rights bill.

The Southerners won a series of preliminary victories Thursday as the Senate rejected 53-42 a move to limit debate, defeated 55-38 a proposal to give the attorney general broad new civil rights powers, and adopted unanimously a Southern-sponsored amendment reducing the penalties proposed for interfering with court orders.

The House accepted by a 312-93 vote the procedures set forth by its Rules Committee for considering the bill.

Southern House members announced they would not try to delay a vote there through parliamentary maneuvering, and received in return a promise that sufficien ttime to discuss the bill would be provided.

The Senate, which has battled for nearly four weeks over civil rights legislation, slowed its pace. Leaders said there will be no night session tonight and no meeting Saturday.

Lausche's amendment would apply to court orders in all types of cases a section of the administration's civil rights bill providing criminal penalties for obstruction of court orders in school integration cases.

This is one of the chief arguments made by Southern senators. They contend any such legislation should apply to injunctions issued in labor disputes and other cases rather than just to orders barring school segregation.

This part of the bill is aimed at any recurrence of the resistance that met a court order in 1957 for the admission of Negro students to a high school in Little Rock, Ark.

The Senate voted 89-0 Thursday night to reduce the criminal penalties from a $10,000 fine or two years in jail to a $1,000 fine or one year in jail.

Far more significant was a 55-38 vote tabling and thus killing an amendment to empower the attorney general to bring school integration and other civil rights suits in behalf of individual citizens. Such power is now limited to voting rights cases.

Mercury Dips To 10 Below In Rural Area

The late winter cold wave, deepening each night, set new records when the mercury tumbled to below zero again in the rural areas early today.

Edwin Copeland, U. S. weather observer at Millport, said he had 10 below; Dam 8 at Newell reported 4 above for the low mark of the week, and the downtown shivered at 8 above, also a low. Fredericktown had 5 below.

Copeland said it is the first time in the 65-year-old history of the weather station that below zero has prevailed five nights in a row, and the minus 10 was the second lowest reading ever recorded in March. The record low is minus 15 in March 1943.

Under the clear skies in the east, record-breaking low temperatures were reported elsewhere. Canton had 1 below zero, New Philadelphia 2 below and Cleveland 3 below.

Higher temperatures were reported elsewhere. Columbus had 14 and Cincinnati 20.

The cold wave will linger on tonight as a low of 3 to 8 above is forecast for Northeastern Ohio—but there is no more snow in sight until Monday or Tuesday, when up to half an inch may fall.

Doerfer Quits; Ford Selected As FCC Head

Ike Tells Former Chairman Decision Was 'A Wise One'

WASHINGTON (AP) — John C. Doerfer, under fire for accepting hospitality from a broadcasting executive, has resigned as chairman of the Federal Communications Commission.

President Eisenhower told Doerfer the decision was a wise one, and accepted the resignation effective next Monday.

The President promptly named Commissioner Frederick W. Ford as Doerfer's successor. Ford, a former Clarksburg, W. Va., attorney, will take over the chairmanship next Tuesday.

It was just a week ago today that Doerfer acknowledged to congressional investigators that he had flown to Florida last month on a plane owned by George V. Storer and had spent six nights aboard Storer's yacht. Storer owns a chain of radio and televions stations subject to FCC regulation.

Doerfer insisted last week to the House Legislative Oversight subcommittee that he had done nothing wrong and renewed that contention in his letter of resignation, but said he was quitting to avoid "possible embarrassment" to the President and his administration.

Doerfer, 55, had an unpublicized meeting Wednesday with Eisenhower and offered to quit then. His formal letter of resignation arrived at the White House Thursday.

Eisenhower appointed Doerfer to the commission in 1953 and made him chairman three years ago.

Doerfer, who has been a strong opponent of any government censorship of radio and TV programming, was chairman of the Wisconsin Public Service Commission before coming to Washington.

Ford, 51, is a native of Bluefield, W. Va., and a 1934 graduate of West Virginia University's law school. Except for wartime service in the Air Force, he has been a government lawyer and official since 1939 and a member of the commission since 1957.

Doerfer was the third major officeholder in the Eisenhower administration to quit under fire by the House subcommittee. Sherman Adams resigned to years ago as Eisenhower's chief assistant. Richard A. Mack quit two years ago as a member of the FCC.

Countywide Contest Set

Plans Under Way For Spelling Bee

Plans are under way for the annual spelling bees in Columbiana County sponsored by The Review and Salem News, members of Brush-Moore Newspapers, Inc.

In a major revision of the elimination process, a countywide contest will be held this year to determine the spellers who will advance to the district finals at Canton May 6. The Canton winner, as in the past, becomes eligible for the national spelldown at Washington, D. C.

As previously, the county competition will be waged on six district levels — East Liverpool, Wellsville and Salem public school systems, the county school system, the exempted villages (Lisbon, Columbiana and Leetonia) and the parochial school system.

Until this year, the East Liverpool public schools had sent two winners directly to Canton and the others one each—making a total of seven from the county.

Now, however, under a realignment based on enrollment figures as recommended by spelling bee headquarters at Canton, Columbiana County will have six in the Canton finals.

They will be the last six who survive the countywide finals which will be held at Lisbon, the date to be announced later.

Under a formula of 1 speller for each 500 eligible in grades 1 through 8, 32 youngsters will participate at Lisbon.

The 32 will be divided as follows: East Liverpool public schools, 8; county school system, 8; Salem public schools, 5; Wellsville public schools, 3; Lisbon, Columbiana and Leetonia public schools, 2 each, and the parochial schools, 2.

The various school systems are going ahead with plans for the contests preliminary to the county spelldown, with some already well into competition.

A complete schedule of the various bees will be published when the time and place for each have been announced. As during the last several years, tentative plans again call for the district parochial contest to be held at St. Aloysius School here. In addition to St. Aloysius, Immaculate Conception of Wellsville, St. Paul's of Salem, St. Patrick's of Leetonia and Our Lady Of Lourdes of East Palestine would be represented.

The total entrants in the Canton contest on May 6 have been reduced from 43 to 38 on the basis of one entrant for every 2,500 students.

In addition to Columbiana, Stark, Carroll and Tuscarawas counties are represented. Under the change, the number of finalists from Canton, North Canton and Carrollton remains the same; an increase has resulted in contestants from Stark County schools and the Stark County parochial schools, and the number from Massillon, Alliance, Carroll County and Tuscarawas County has been reduced.

The Canton finals are sponsored by The Canton Repository.

Word lists will appear from time to time in both The Review and The News to assist spellers in preparation for the contests.

500 Marooned Families Aided

More Snow, Ice Storms Sweep Midwest And South

By The Associated Press

More snow and ice storms today swept across sections of the winter-weary Midwest and South, hitting areas still staggering from crippling weather earlier this week.

Meanwhile, in the snowbound mountain regions of northwest North Carolina, the Army, National Guard and the Red Cross joined forces to effect the rescue of and give relief to more than 500 marooned families. Snow depths were 2-3 feet, with drifts up to 35 feet, in four counties hit hard by earlier storms. More snow was in sight.

The fresh late winter storm, erupting in the western Plains, dumped 2 to 4 inches of snow from the eastern Dakotas and Minnesota southward through the Lower Mississippi Valley before shifting slowly eastward.

The recent heavy snowfalls and continued cold weather have left a heavy snow blanket in the north central region. The covering in Omaha was two feet and more than a foot in most of Iowa and Missouri.

Snow fell as far south as northern Arkansas before spreading northward into the Lower Ohio Valley.

Sewage Plant Bond Vote Set For Midland

$625,000 Proposal Will Be Submitted In Primary Ballot

Midland Council Thursday night adopted a resolution to submit a $625,000 bond issue for a mandatory sewage disposal plant at the primary election April 26.

The action was taken after a report that no state aid can be expected, except for a 2 per cent planning grant later on, and the fact the borough is already two years late in going ahead — it was ordered "in operation" in April 1958.

The firm of Hosack, Specht, Muetzel & Wood of Pittsburgh was awarded a contract for the preparation of a general obligation bond issue.

Burgess Eli G. Corak asked Charles A. Muetzel, representative of the bond firm, whether the general obligation bonds were cheaper than authority bonds for financing the project. Muetzel replied the general bonds are cheaper, perhaps by $100,000.

Corak said that "the major point we want to stress" is that the general bonds are cheaper. He said the borough has looked for the cheapest way since it can expect no financial aid except for the 2 per cent.

Muetzel said that necessary information on the borough will be compiled and sent to 150 brokers in the country so they may bid on the issue. The cost of printing and mailing will be $600 and an additional $150 will be charged for preparation of the borough's state-

NEW BRIGHTON, Pa. — Fire burned through a building housing a furniture store and two apartments in this Beaver County community early today. Damage unofficially was estimated at $100,000.

Two families living above the Williams Furniture Store escaped unhurt. Fire broke out in the two-story brick structure at 3:17 a. m. Firemen said a good fire wall prevented the blaze from spreading to adjoining structures.

Mrs. Marion Powell, who occupied one of the apartments, said she was awakened by the barking of her dog, Satan. Mrs. Powell ran across the hall and pounded on the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kerr.

Firemen said the blaze apparently started from an overheated furnace.

Eyes Plan To Extend Penalty Provisions In Integration Cases

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate takes up today a proposal that efforts to obstruct court orders in labor and other cases carry the same penalty as similar actions in school integration cases.

The proposal by Sen. Frank J. Lausche (D-Ohio) would remove much of the sting felt by Southerners from one section of the administration's civil rights bill.

The Southerners won a series of preliminary victories Thursday as the Senate rejected 53-42 a move to limit debate, defeated 55-38 a proposal to give the attorney general broad new civil rights powers, and adopted unanimously a Southern-sponsored amendment reducing the penalties proposed for interfering with court orders.

The House accepted by a 312-93 vote the procedures set forth by its Rules Committee for considering the bill.

Southern House members announced they would not try to delay a vote there through parliamentary maneuvering, and received in return a promise that sufficien ttime to discuss the bill would be provided.

The Senate, which has battled for nearly four weeks over civil rights legislation, slowed its pace. Leaders said there will be no night session tonight and no meeting Saturday.

Lausche's amendment would apply to court orders in all types of cases a section of the administration's civil rights bill providing criminal penalties for obstruction of court orders in school integration cases.

This is one of the chief arguments made by Southern senators. They contend any such legislation should apply to injunctions issued in labor disputes and other cases rather than just to orders barring school segregation.

This part of the bill is aimed at any recurrence of the resistance that met a court order in 1957 for the admission of Negro students to a high school in Little Rock, Ark.

The Senate voted 89-0 Thursday night to reduce the criminal penalties from a $10,000 fine or two years in jail to a $1,000 fine or one year in jail.

Far more significant was a 55-38 vote tabling and thus killing an amendment to empower the attorney general to bring school integration and other civil rights suits in behalf of individual citizens. Such power is now limited to voting rights cases.

Mercury Dips To 10 Below In Rural Area

The late winter cold wave, deepening each night, set new records when the mercury tumbled to below zero again in the rural areas early today.

Edwin Copeland, U. S. weather observer at Millport, said he had 10 below; Dam 8 at Newell reported 4 above for the low mark of the week, and the downtown shivered at 8 above, also a low. Fredericktown had 5 below.

Copeland said it is the first time in the 65-year-old history of the weather station that below zero has prevailed five nights in a row, and the minus 10 was the second lowest reading ever recorded in March. The record low is minus 15 in March 1943.

Under the clear skies in the east, record-breaking low temperatures were reported elsewhere. Canton had 1 below zero, New Philadelphia 2 below and Cleveland 3 below.

Higher temperatures were reported elsewhere. Columbus had 14 and Cincinnati 20.

The cold wave will linger on tonight as a low of 3 to 8 above is forecast for Northeastern Ohio—but there is no more snow in sight until Monday or Tuesday, when up to half an inch may fall.

Doerfer Quits; Ford Selected As FCC Head

Ike Tells Former Chairman Decision Was 'A Wise One'

WASHINGTON (AP) — John C. Doerfer, under fire for accepting hospitality from a broadcasting executive, has resigned as chairman of the Federal Communications Commission.

President Eisenhower told Doerfer the decision was a wise one, and accepted the resignation effective next Monday.

The President promptly named Commissioner Frederick W. Ford as Doerfer's successor. Ford, a former Clarksburg, W. Va., attorney, will take over the chairmanship next Tuesday.

It was just a week ago today that Doerfer acknowledged to congressional investigators that he had flown to Florida last month on a plane owned by George V. Storer and had spent six nights aboard Storer's yacht. Storer owns a chain of radio and televions stations subject to FCC regulation.

Doerfer insisted last week to the House Legislative Oversight subcommittee that he had done nothing wrong and renewed that contention in his letter of resignation, but said he was quitting to avoid "possible embarrassment" to the President and his administration.

Doerfer, 55, had an unpublicized meeting Wednesday with Eisenhower and offered to quit then. His formal letter of resignation arrived at the White House Thursday.

Eisenhower appointed Doerfer to the commission in 1953 and made him chairman three years ago.

Doerfer, who has been a strong opponent of any government censorship of radio and TV programming, was chairman of the Wisconsin Public Service Commission before coming to Washington.

Ford, 51, is a native of Bluefield, W. Va., and a 1934 graduate of West Virginia University's law school. Except for wartime service in the Air Force, he has been a government lawyer and official since 1939 and a member of the commission since 1957.

Doerfer was the third major officeholder in the Eisenhower administration to quit under fire by the House subcommittee. Sherman Adams resigned to years ago as Eisenhower's chief assistant. Richard A. Mack quit two years ago as a member of the FCC.

Countywide Contest Set

Plans Under Way For Spelling Bee

Plans are under way for the annual spelling bees in Columbiana County sponsored by The Review and Salem News, members of Brush-Moore Newspapers, Inc.

In a major revision of the elimination process, a countywide contest will be held this year to determine the spellers who will advance to the district finals at Canton May 6. The Canton winner, as in the past, becomes eligible for the national spelldown at Washington, D. C.

As previously, the county competition will be waged on six district levels — East Liverpool, Wellsville and Salem public school systems, the county school system, the exempted villages (Lisbon, Columbiana and Leetonia) and the parochial school system.

Until this year, the East Liverpool public schools had sent two winners directly to Canton and the others one each—making a total of seven from the county.

Now, however, under a realignment based on enrollment figures as recommended by spelling bee headquarters at Canton, Columbiana County will have six in the Canton finals.

They will be the last six who survive the countywide finals which will be held at Lisbon, the date to be announced later.

Under a formula of 1 speller for each 500 eligible in grades 1 through 8, 32 youngsters will participate at Lisbon.

The 32 will be divided as follows: East Liverpool public schools, 8; county school system, 8; Salem public schools, 5; Wellsville public schools, 3; Lisbon, Columbiana and Leetonia public schools, 2 each, and the parochial schools, 2.

The various school systems are going ahead with plans for the contests preliminary to the county spelldown, with some already well into competition.

A complete schedule of the various bees will be published when the time and place for each have been announced. As during the last several years, tentative plans again call for the district parochial contest to be held at St. Aloysius School here. In addition to St. Aloysius, Immaculate Conception of Wellsville, St. Paul's of Salem, St. Patrick's of Leetonia and Our Lady Of Lourdes of East Palestine would be represented.

The total entrants in the Canton contest on May 6 have been reduced from 43 to 38 on the basis of one entrant for every 2,500 students.

In addition to Columbiana, Stark, Carroll and Tuscarawas counties are represented. Under the change, the number of finalists from Canton, North Canton and Carrollton remains the same; an increase has resulted in contestants from Stark County schools and the Stark County parochial schools, and the number from Massillon, Alliance, Carroll County and Tuscarawas County has been reduced.

Word lists will appear from time to time in both The Review and The News to assist spellers in preparation for the contests.

500 Marooned Families Aided

More Snow, Ice Storms Sweep Midwest And South

By The Associated Press

More snow and ice storms today swept across sections of the winter-weary Midwest and South, hitting areas still staggering from crippling weather earlier this week.

Meanwhile, in the snowbound mountain regions of northwest North Carolina, the Army, National Guard and the Red Cross joined forces to effect the rescue of and give relief to more than 500 marooned families. Snow depths were 2-3 feet, with drifts up to 35 feet, in four counties hit hard by earlier storms. More snow was in sight.

The fresh late winter storm, erupting in the western Plains, dumped 2 to 4 inches of snow from the eastern Dakotas and Minnesota southward through the Lower Mississippi Valley before shifting slowly eastward.

The recent heavy snowfalls and continued cold weather have left a heavy snow blanket in the north central region. The covering in Omaha was two feet and more than a foot in most of Iowa and Missouri.

Snow fell as far south as northern Arkansas before spreading northward into the Lower Ohio Valley.

Sewage Plant Bond Vote Set For Midland

$625,000 Proposal Will Be Submitted In Primary Ballot

Midland Council Thursday night adopted a resolution to submit a $625,000 bond issue for a mandatory sewage disposal plant at the primary election April 26.

The action was taken after a report that no state aid can be expected, except for a 2 per cent planning grant later on, and the fact the borough is already two years late in going ahead — it was ordered "in operation" in April 1958.

The firm of Hosack, Specht, Muetzel & Wood of Pittsburgh was awarded a contract for the preparation of a general obligation bond issue.

Burgess Eli G. Corak asked Charles A. Muetzel, representative of the bond firm, whether the general obligation bonds were cheaper than authority bonds for financing the project. Muetzel replied the general bonds are cheaper, perhaps by $100,000.

Corak said that "the major point we want to stress" is that the general bonds are cheaper. He said the borough has looked for the cheapest way since it can expect no financial aid except for the 2 per cent.

Muetzel said that necessary information on the borough will be compiled and sent to 150 brokers in the country so they may bid on the issue. The cost of printing and mailing will be $600 and an additional $150 will be charged for preparation of the borough's state-

NEW BRIGHTON, Pa. — Fire burned through a building housing a furniture store and two apartments in this Beaver County community early today. Damage unofficially was estimated at $100,000.

Two families living above the Williams Furniture Store escaped unhurt. Fire broke out in the two-story brick structure at 3:17 a. m. Firemen said a good fire wall prevented the blaze from spreading to adjoining structures.

Mrs. Marion Powell, who occupied one of the apartments, said she was awakened by the barking of her dog, Satan. Mrs. Powell ran across the hall and pounded on the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kerr.

Firemen said the blaze apparently started from an overheated furnace.

Midland Sets Trial Of New Traffic Plans

Midland Borough Council Thursday evening adopted a resolution authorizing a 60-day trial period for new traffic regulations at the 3rd St. entrance to the Midland Works of the Crucible Steel Co.

The regulations will be in effect from 6 to 8 a. m., 2 to 4 p. m. and 10 to midnight during shift changes. Councilman Lester Trainer, traffic chairman, said those turning off Midland Ave. on to 3rd St. cannot make a left turn onto Railroad Ave.

He said those traveling west on Railroad cannot make a left turn at 3rd St. into the plant. Employes leaving Crucible cannot make a right turn on to Railroad.

The only cross-over of traffic will be for those traveling east on Railroad, who may continue straight ahead or turn left on 3rd St. Those who park in the lot on Railroad may still turn right off 3rd.

Trainer said the signs should eliminate much cross-over of traffic and ease the traffic congestion during shift changes.

Burgess Eli Corak said that no arrests will be made for a week to 10 days until the public becomes familiar with the new regulations.

Notices of the proposed changes were posted in the mill. Trainer said he will notify Capt. William MacBurney at Crucible of Council's action. Police Chief Ed J. Stefl and his department assisted Trainer in the traffic study.

County Fair To Get Funds Under State Aid

The county fair will receive the minumum of $2,500, plus an extra $3,000 due fairs with racing programs, and another $3,132 given fairs with colt stakes—a total of $8,632.

The fair fund comes from one-half of the 1 per cent deductions from parimutuel betting pools at race tracks in the state. The Ohio State Fair gets $60,000 and the balance is shared by the 82 county and 8 independent fairs.

Donahey Cites Challenge Of Future At Jaycee Rally

Candidates for state offices the coming year were introduced and the district "Speak Up Jaycee" contest was held during the business session. Lt. Gov. John W. Donahey was the principal speaker.

Guests included Robert Hershey of Orville, state Jaycee president; Robert Betts of Barnesville, national vice president; Elmer Williams of Mason, external vice president; Jack Rayment of Painesville, state treasurer; Rex F. Local guests included members of the Chamber of Commerce, associate Jaycee members, Police Chief Americo Radeschi and Judge Louis Tobin.

Donahey, in his talk on "Jayceeism," said "only through the Jaycees can you obtain the leadership training at an age when it does the most good."

He discussed the future of Ohio and its industry and the part that will be played in the state's growth by young men. He urged active participation in local and state governmental affairs, pointing out that interest in government is a part of the Jaycee creed.

Donahey said that it is anticipated that by the year 2010 Ohio will have some 36,000,000 residents, a challenge to future leaders. "It is up to you young men to serve as the keeper of our resources," he continued.

Donahey is a native of New Philadelphia and a son of the late A. Vic Donahey, former state auditor, governor and U. S. senator. He was introduced by Russell Hall, dinner chairman.

Shaheen conducted business. Robert Ferguson of East Liverpool gave the invocation and Harry Stewart, local secretary, served as recording secretary for the session.

Hall served as master of ceremonies and Shaheen introduced the state officials.

Introduced as candidates for state president were Betts, Rayment, Williams and Dick Siebold of Canton.

Kieffer Jr. of Zanesville, national director; R. T. Croyle of Elyria, international director, and Carl Shaheen of Canton, district vice president.

Donahey, in his talk on "Jayceeism," said "only through the Jaycees can you obtain the leadership training at an age when it does the most good."

He discussed the future of Ohio and its industry and the part that will be played in the state's growth by young men. He urged active participation in local and state governmental affairs, pointing out that interest in government is a part of the Jaycee creed.

Donahey said that it is anticipated that by the year 2010 Ohio will have some 36,000,000 residents, a challenge to future leaders. "It is up to you young men to serve as the keeper of our resources," he continued.

Donahey is a native of New Philadelphia and a son of the late A. Vic Donahey, former state auditor, governor and U. S. senator. He was introduced by Russell Hall, dinner chairman.

Shaheen conducted business. Robert Ferguson of East Liverpool gave the invocation and Harry Stewart, local secretary, served as recording secretary for the session.

Hall served as master of ceremonies and Shaheen introduced the state officials.

Introduced as candidates for state president were Betts, Rayment, Williams and Dick Siebold of Canton.

John Q. Wilson of Canton won the speaking contest. Other contestants were Ed Adkins, local president, and Jim Worley of Alliance. The event was directed by B. J. Mangano.

Locals represented, in addition to East Liverpool, were Wellsville, Steubenville, Canton, North Canton, Alliance, Salem, Lisbon, East Palestine, Columbiana, Louisville and Massillon.

Canton won the "man mileage" award for having traveled the most miles per man represented at the meeting.

Tax Claim Reduced

CLEVELAND (AP)—A federal tax claim against the estate of the late Samuel T. Haas, Cleveland real estate investor and speculator, has been reduced by almost two million dollars, according to a lien released here by the Internal Revenue Service. The government now is seeking $2,577,963 instead of the $5,489,936. The Haas estate is estimated at more than four million dollars.

The next event for the council will be the celebration of May Fellowship Day on May 6.

Red China And The Giant Cracker

A member of India's Parliament has predicted that Red China will explode its first atomic bomb this month. His prediction has not been confirmed, but it does not really need to be confirmed. Everybody knows it will come true.

Atomic scientists and political guessers agree that Red China is destined to have an atomic bomb of some kind in the near future because that is in the natural and foreseeable course of events.

First, there is no scientific barrier to keep nations from entering the 'nuclear club" as rapidly as they can put up the money for a nuclear device. There are no secrets.

Second, there is no political restraint on exchanging information and aid in this new field of international power politics wherever and whenever the information and aid promise to serve some useful purpose. Russia may have such a purpose in mind.

Even the crudest nuclear device in the hands of the Red Chinese would be a powerful lever to pry open the closed door of resistance to Communist China. It would terrorize the Nationalist Chinese on Formosa. It would chill the Japanese government. And it would put sobering thoughts in the minds of every American militarist concerned with strategy in the Pacific. Russia would like that, despite the tension it would cause in Russia, itself.

Key to the tension would be the realization, even among Russian militarists, that there is no way in sight at this time to gear the People's Republic of China to the aspirations and strategies of other nations. The People's Republic is not a stabilized government. Though today it is largely a dependent of the Soviet Union, which presumably would help it to build its first nuclear device, its masters do not see eye to eye with the Soviet Union in all directions. Historically, the Chinese and the Russians are competitors, not allies.

But eventually the People's Republic will know how to make a nuclear explosion. Its physicists, chemists, politicians and economists will have the ultimate firecracker, the giant size that can command respect anywhere on earth. When that happens, the Chinese Nationalists will have to be given the same power. Ultimately, everybody will have it, with the result that when everybody has the same power no one will have any special power.

At that point, if the philosophers are keeping abreast of their special kind of guesswork, atomic power will be so little worth having as a means of military persuasion that worldwide disarmament might finally become feasible.

Remember The Maine!

Books Only One Source

A tiff over the rights of a pair of foster parents in New Jersey to a 4-year-old girl whose custody is being claimed by the state has produced a controversy over books.

This controversy inside a controversy will be going long after lawyers, public officials and judges have settled the custody dispute. The New Jersey Board of Child Welfare started it with a statement in its report that the child should not stay with her foster parents because they had no books in their home. This was part of the report's finding that the foster parents were less able to offer a prospect of education than could be offered in some other home where books and other advantages were present.

The defense offered in the foster parents' behalf that books in the home are no longer essential; that anyone in need of books can get them at a library and moreover that television now provides entertainment and culture formerly obtainable only from books.

It cannot be argued that a home without books—provided the books are used—is as desirable an environment for a child with an educable mind as a home with books. And the child in this case is educable. Her high IQ is involved in the controversy; she should be given high educational privileges, the state claims.

But it can be argued that a home without books—provided its occupants are eager for knowledge and sympathetic to the quest for knowledge—is a suitable environment for education. And certainly it can be argued that books, of themselves and in themselves, cannot educate anyone by their presence alone. A television set in use furnishes more education than books that are not being used.

Television and books complement each other. They do not exclude each other. They and newspapers, magazines and radio all belong together in the whole picture of communication. For millions of homes in which books were either not owned or not used, television has opened new vistas of information and interest.

Far from excluding the other sources of education, television will make them seem more important in the long run.

Public Policy On Compact Cars

Reports from a number of sources indicate that government officials at all political levels are scratching their heads over what their policy should be on the new compact cars. As with most public policy, there are two sides to the issue.

The National Institute of Governmental Purchasing has reported an increasing trend toward purchase of small cars for economy reasons. Many cities have tried the little autos and found them highly successful. One even discovered that they are cheaper to buy and operate than motorcycles formerly used to check overtime parking.

The federal government and a number of state governments also have started to swing to the miniatures.

On the other hand, fiscal officials are beginning to voice alarm at the effect of the switch to compacts on public revenues — taxes on auto sales, motor fuel, tires, parts and accessories and license tag fees (in those states where the latter are based on the size or weight or cost of the car).

The Bureau of Public Roads, which has not appraised the effect of the trend because of inadequate statistics to date, nevertheless has declared that for each 10 per cent of standard automobile registrations replaced by compact or light vehicles, there is an indicated reduction in Highway Trust Fund revenues of between 1.5 and 2 per cent. This, the bureau says, could amount to as much as 50 million dollars a year.

That would be bad news for both Congress and the administration, who are engaged annually in a struggle to keep the interstate road program moving ahead with adequate financing.

There are some optimistic voices, of course, who say that the appeal of the compacts is to that increasing number of American families who want second cars. A petroleum industry executive has said this factor ultimately will mean an increase rather than a decrease in motor fuel use.

Until more definite data are available, though, public officials will continue to wonder what they ought to do. If they join the compact bandwagon, it well could provide a psychological shot in the arm for the already burgeoning swing to small cars, which in turn could result in a substantial drop in highway revenues.

Or there is the possibility that the swing to compacts, independently of what government agencies do, may force the public officials to resort to compacts as a way of living within their reduced revenues.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Do drinkers who toe-in feel their likker faster than those who toe-out? Is a man with a caterpillar mustache as dangerous when on highways as one with handlebar type?

These questions could be raised in rash of screwy bills proposed around country to get drunken drivers off the roads.

The New York Senate even passed a bill to determine alcoholic resistance by the driver's weight. A chart was provided showing whether the "ability to drive is impaired" pound by pound or drink by drink.

A 100-pound driver who has had 4½ ounces of 80 proof booze (or about four drinks) is held to be driving "with skill unimpaired." A 250-pound life-of-the-party guzzler is only dangerous when he is midway between 10 and 12 ounces or awash in a dozen snifters, the table says.

Anybody under 100 pounds at the wheel of a car is too sick to drive. But we have all seen a drinker with "weight off" who drinks in the 250-pound class. And there is the Fatso who is a highway threat on the alcoholic allowance of a Singer midget.

Police and courts are pretty scared even by a proposed law to apply race-track scale weights for highway pixilation steeplechase.

Would a cop have to be a weight guesser or carry a set of bathroom scales to be fair to killers? Must he wobble between two verdicts: (1) The guy is plastered (2) No, he doesn't weigh enough?

Would instructions go out to all police cars: "Watch the roads tonight! A lot of fat citizens are reported in the saloons. We had a good week due to the fact drinkers were in 100- to 140-pound class but there's been a switch in trend."

"What happened to those six drunks you arrested last night?" a police captain may ask.

"The judge let 'em off on their lawyer's claim they were entitled to an apprentice allowance," cop could reply.

Actors Seek New Profit Pattern

By Victor Riesel

There's gold in those reels of celluloid America's movie producers have stacked in film vaults—which now hold about 200 million dollars worth of old pictures the movie makers want to sell to TV. These are the post-1948 pictures. And the Screen Actors Guild is striking for a cut of at least 30 million of this buried treasure.

Victor Riesel

But there's more than glamor in this strike led by the everlasting college-type Ronnie Reagan, SAG president. This is a strike for a new kind of profit sharing.

This is a stoppage which jousts with automation in the form of paid TV, about which more later. This is the parade of the white-collar workers against the machine.

It's a costly strike for the 14,000 members of the SAG—for they have cut themselves off from an annual payroll of some 35 million dollars.

The total movie actors' payroll is more than 67 million a year. Nearly half the industry now is devoted to television entertainment pictures and commercials which are not on strike. The other—the struck half—is what is called "theatrical pictures."

THERE ARE SOME 2,500 theatrical pictures filmed after 1948 which the producers can sell to television studios for free broadcasting. This sale would bring from 190 million to 250 million dollars.

This would be above the money already made on the pictures in the movie houses over the past 12 years. So the Screen Actors say they want to share—about 15 per cent worth of the new profits.

The SAG leaders are practical businessmen despite the glamor of their executive board—which lists many of my old friends such as Walter Pidgeon, Charlton Heston, Leon Ames, Dana Andrews and Howard Keel. They claim that their followers didn't work on films for commercial sponsorship.

The Guild has contracts with some 400 independent producers saying that the actors are entitled to more money if the pictures are televised to sell some product. Now they are striking the big ones.

Furthermore, as far as the actors are concerned an automatic nightmare reared its out-of-space head the other day in a Toronto, Canada, suburb. This is pay-as-you-see television in the parlor. You put a dollar in a slot and you tune in a first-run picture.

This experiment, if successful, could bring a producer millions of dollars on a picture before and after he gets it into a movie house. The actors say they want to share in this new automated field and they won't sign away their rights to this future income.

Now it must be remembered that it is a long time since the nation's entertainers were so weak that they had to spell the word "star" backwards. They put the word "white" before it and disguised their union, known to the world as the White Rats—a sort of entertainment club.

Today the entire field is thoroughly unionized—and the most influential part of it is led by Dick Walsh, head of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes—the IA.

THIS UNION has said quietly that if the big movie producers cut the Screen Actors in on the profits of the old films—and the thousands yet to go before the cameras—the stage hands want to share the profits, too. After all, what would Elizabeth Taylor be without cameras, lights, props, grips, sound men, film editors and make-up artists.

Mrs. Eddie Fisher would be a mighty attractive lady—but she couldn't make movies. So the SAG strike is complicated by the fact that if the actors win, the whole economy of the two billion dollar movie industry is opened wide not only for a cut into the past but for future profit sharing as well.

The movie producers say they've paid for what they contracted to buy. The pictures are now their property. Why should they pay twice? If someone buys a Picasso canvas, he doesn't pay the artist a percentage of the resale profit or the gate receipts on an exhibit, the producers assert.

Meanwhile, the less glamorous, basic industrialists watch the white collar drive for profit sharing on a unit after it has been produced. This could set a pattern in the more mundane automated world.

Off To A Meeting

By Truman Twill

Nobody could enjoy meetings more than I do. You meet such interesting people.

But in behalf of everybody else who feels this way, something needs to be said about the other side of the same situation.

Every minute spent at a meeting is a minute not spent on the job. And the harsh fact is that nearly all of us who must go to meetings earn our living on the job, not at meetings.

Yet, it is the happy assumption that time consumed in attending meetings during working hours can be subtracted from working time with no net loss of output.

This leads to the common practice of having as many meetings as possible during the time that otherwise would be spent eating lunch. This is based on a bland assumption that the ingestion of food and the ingestion of whatever is to be discussed at the meeting can be handled simultaneously.

It never works that way.

The meeting always is tacked on to the end of the lunch hour, or half hour, or quarter hour, and the person attending the meeting finds to his consternation when he gets back to his job that the work has piled up so high he will be lucky if he can get out from under it in time to go to bed after a postponed evening meal.

This is, we submit, a worrisome problem of these complex and over-organized times — a problem that has grown to towering dimensions. Herewith is a solution.

It is to create in every organization one functionary whose sole duty is to attend meetings. This already is done in some places, but the solution has not become universal. It needs to be applied more generally.

Something must be done to make certain nothing happens to meetings, because otherwise there will begin to be so much resistance to this practice that it will go by the boards and the American way of life will be robbed of its favorite device for spreading responsibility so thin that if something goes wrong no individual can be blamed for it.

The committee system of getting from A to B by way of C, D, E, F, G and so on will crumple and sag. Democracy will totter. The status system's standard of values will fall apart. With no meetings being held because no one will come to them, the formerly famed American efficiency will be restored to working order and politicians will be denied the privilege of blaming their betters for not being as productive as the once notoriously inefficient Russkies.

One thought must be added here for those who do not understand the meeting system. It is the warp and woof of the civic-minded stratum of the good society that flourishes under the Bald Eagle and the Stars and Stripes, especially the woof.

There is more woofing done in this nation from the beginning of the luncheon hour until the middle of the afternoon than is done in a K-9 training base at breakfast. It is the starting place of every worthy work and the ending place of many. Yet the whole process is carried on in a left-handed way, under wraps and with no imprimatur to give it official standing.

What we are proposing is a new classification of jobholding in America to be known as "meeting attender." Applicants must be patient and like French beans and hard rolls. There are openings for thousands of citizens who otherwise would have nothing to look forward to but a life of toil.

It would be a courtesy if this were to be considered as my application. And so, off to another luncheon meeting while the work piles up and the clock races!

Legal Inconsistency

By David Lawrence

Court Ruling Seen Confusing Handbill Status

The Supreme Court of the United States added this week to the confusion and inconsistency which too often characterize its hair-splitting decisions. Even the best lawyers in the country must be baffled now in attempting to say just what the law of the land is is today with reference to the distribution of anonymous handbills.

David Lawrence

The high court struck down a Los Angeles city ordinance which required the sponsors and distributors of such handbills to identify themselves to the public. The court said this would infringe on the right of free speech and free press.

For many decades now, under a law of Congress, newspapers and other publications have faced a loss of their second class mail privileges if they did not publish at least once a year the names of their principal officers, owners and holders of their bonds or mortgages. This law has been upheld by the Supreme Court.

But if newspapers are required to disclose their ownership and managing personnel, why should another set of citizens be allowed to carry on campaigns of various kinds by distributing printed matter on the streets without having to reveal their sponsors?

THE SUPREME COURT, moreover, has upheld heretofore the law requiring that lobbyists in Congress must regularly register and disclose the identity of their sponsors. The right of disclosure has long been ruled to be a public right and in no way an infringement on the First Amendment guarantees of free speech and free press.

This is sound doctrine.

But now six justices of the Supreme Court — Black, Douglas, Warren, Brennan, Harlan and Stewart — pull back and argue that, because reprisals may be directed against the distributors of anonymous handbills, they can hereafter conceal or hide their identity.

In this case, the court related that: "The handbills urged readers to help the organization carry on a boycott against certain merchants and businessmen, whose names were given, on the ground that, as one handbill said, they carried products of "manufacturers who will not offer equal employment opportunities to Negroes, Mexicans and Orientals."

The dissenting opinion in the current case, written by Justice Clark and concurred in by Justices Frankfurter and Whittaker, points out the inconsistencies as follows:

"All that Los Angeles requires is that one who exercises his right of free speech through writing or distributing handbills identify himself just as does one who speaks from the platform.

"The ordinance makes for the responsibility in writing that is present in public utterance. When and if the application of such an ordinance in a given case encroaches on First Amendment freedoms, then will be soon enough to strike that application down. But no such restraint has been shown here. . . .

"We have upheld complete proscription of uninvited door-to-door canvassing as an invasion of privacy. Is this less restrictive than complete freedom of distribution—regardless of content—of a signed handbill? And commercial handbills may be declared verboten (forbidden) regardless of content or identification.

"Is Talley's anonymous handbill, designed to destroy the business of a commercial establishment, passed out at its very front door and attacking its then lawful commercial practices, more comportable with First Amendment freedoms? I think not. Before we may expect international responsibility among nations, might it not be well to require individual responsibility at home? Los Angeles' ordinance does no more."

THE REFERENCE in the above quotation to the distribution of "commercial handbills" was based on a New York City ordinance barring the distribution on the streets of any commercial advertising matter, even though signed or identified. The decision upholding the ordinance was handed down in 1942 in a unanimous opinion by the Supreme Court of the United States, consisting then of Justices Black, Douglas and Frankfurter of the present court membership and Justices Roberts, Murphy, Byrnes, Jackson, Reed and Chief Justice Stone.

So what it all boils down to is that a city may prohibit distribution on the streets of any commercial literature — even though signed — "puffing the wares" of a business but it cannot prohibit anyone from distributing unsigned handbills or pamphlets attacking a business or asking the public not to buy such wares.

Surely, inconsistency in the law of the land was never more dramatically revealed.

There Has Been A Change

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

Eleven months. No victory, really. No defeat. Nothing settled or solved. And yet in these 11 months there has been a big change.

You couldn't help but feel it this week at the news conference of Christian A. Herter who just a little less than 11 months ago succeeded John Foster Dulles as secretary of state. Dulles was then dying of cancer.

Herter is a friendly, even a genial, kind of man who seems to answer questions directly. He certainly answers simply. He gives an impression of great honesty, but not an impression of great power.

Dulles was different. He talked like a man who had rehearsed—by having his aides ask him the questions newsmen might ask him—his answers beforehand, carefully down to the last phrase.

But you never had any doubt, listening to Dulles and watching him, that he had power to spare. There was never any doubt that he was speaking not only for himself but for President Eisenhower, too, and that Eisenhower approved ahead of time.

The power was there, all right. Between the time he took office in 1953 and the time he went down with cancer early in 1959 Dulles made foreign policy. No secretary of state probably ever had been so trusted by a president.

Gradually, after Herter took over, Eisenhower began to assert himself and, in time, he became the great traveler. More and more it has become apparent that Eisenhower, not Herter, is making the decisions in foreign policy.

In these past 11 months the war without a war with the Soviet Union has quieted down. There is even some hope that good may come of Eisenhower's summit meeting in May with Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

As a result of Eisenhower's increasing dominance in the foreign field, Herter seems to have retreated more into the background. Nothing has really happened—in the sense of solutions—since Herter took office.

We seem to be in a period of waiting, perhaps waiting to see what happens between Eisenhower and Khrushchev. But just because Herter is a mild and genial man he gives this impression, too:

Between now and the time he and the Eisenhower administration leave office in January 1961, sensational events or settlements hardly seem expected.

It is almost as if Herter had become the caretaker of American foreign policy between the forceful and often explosive regime of Dulles and some new administration.

And yet this cannot be overlooked: Perhaps the present period of quiet—between the United States and the Soviet Union — would never have been possible so long as Dulles ran the show. The Soviets were hugely antagonistic to him.

The milder Herter throws no kerosene on the fire. And it is perhaps just because he is a non-inflammable man that the Soviets were willing to talk in a low key, at least for a while.

Dramatic Change

A decade ago, the remote Himalayan kingdom between India and Tibet was virtually closed to outsiders.

Even Nepalese officials seldom ventured beyond the central, mountain-cupped valley of the capital, Katmandu. The royal family was dominated by a hereditary succession of prime ministers. Primitive, scattered tribesmen were hardly aware of national entity.

Today, Nepal is welcoming tourists and using foreign funds and technicians to develop natural resources. Autocratic rule by prime ministers has given way to a constitutional monarchy headed by progressive King Mahendra and Queen Ratna. Schools are being set up.

Dr. Toni Hagen, on a United Nations technical-assistance mission in 1950, made the first geological survey of the country. Trudging through jungle and mountain regions never before seen by a European, he found that roads were nearly nonexistent.

"The air age has opened up parts of Nepal," he observes, "where wheeled transport until yesterday remained a "mystery".

Red China And The Giant Cracker

A member of India's Parliament has predicted that Red China will explode its first atomic bomb this month. His prediction has not been confirmed, but it does not really need to be confirmed. Everybody knows it will come true.

Atomic scientists and political guessers agree that Red China is destined to have an atomic bomb of some kind in the near future because that is in the natural and foreseeable course of events.

First, there is no scientific barrier to keep nations from entering the 'nuclear club" as rapidly as they can put up the money for a nuclear device. There are no secrets.

Second, there is no political restraint on exchanging information and aid in this new field of international power politics wherever and whenever the information and aid promise to serve some useful purpose. Russia may have such a purpose in mind.

Even the crudest nuclear device in the hands of the Red Chinese would be a powerful lever to pry open the closed door of resistance to Communist China. It would terrorize the Nationalist Chinese on Formosa. It would chill the Japanese government. And it would put sobering thoughts in the minds of every American militarist concerned with strategy in the Pacific. Russia would like that, despite the tension it would cause in Russia, itself.

Key to the tension would be the realization, even among Russian militarists, that there is no way in sight at this time to gear the People's Republic of China to the aspirations and strategies of other nations. The People's Republic is not a stabilized government. Though today it is largely a dependent of the Soviet Union, which presumably would help it to build its first nuclear device, its masters do not see eye to eye with the Soviet Union in all directions. Historically, the Chinese and the Russians are competitors, not allies.

But eventually the People's Republic will know how to make a nuclear explosion. Its physicists, chemists, politicians and economists will have the ultimate firecracker, the giant size that can command respect anywhere on earth. When that happens, the Chinese Nationalists will have to be given the same power. Ultimately, everybody will have it, with the result that when everybody has the same power no one will have any special power.

At that point, if the philosophers are keeping abreast of their special kind of guesswork, atomic power will be so little worth having as a means of military persuasion that worldwide disarmament might finally become feasible.

Books Only One Source

A tiff over the rights of a pair of foster parents in New Jersey to a 4-year-old girl whose custody is being claimed by the state has produced a controversy over books.

This controversy inside a controversy will be going long after lawyers, public officials and judges have settled the custody dispute. The New Jersey Board of Child Welfare started it with a statement in its report that the child should not stay with her foster parents because they had no books in their home. This was part of the report's finding that the foster parents were less able to offer a prospect of education than could be offered in some other home where books and other advantages were present.

The defense offered in the foster parents' behalf that books in the home are no longer essential; that anyone in need of books can get them at a library and moreover that television now provides entertainment and culture formerly obtainable only from books.

It cannot be argued that a home without books—provided the books are used—is as desirable an environment for a child with an educable mind as a home with books. And the child in this case is educable. Her high IQ is involved in the controversy; she should be given high educational privileges, the state claims.

But it can be argued that a home without books—provided its occupants are eager for knowledge and sympathetic to the quest for knowledge—is a suitable environment for education. And certainly it can be argued that books, of themselves and in themselves, cannot educate anyone by their presence alone. A television set in use furnishes more education than books that are not being used.

Television and books complement each other. They do not exclude each other. They and newspapers, magazines and radio all belong together in the whole picture of communication. For millions of homes in which books were either not owned or not used, television has opened new vistas of information and interest.

Far from excluding the other sources of education, television will make them seem more important in the long run.

Public Policy On Compact Cars

Reports from a number of sources indicate that government officials at all political levels are scratching their heads over what their policy should be on the new compact cars. As with most public policy, there are two sides to the issue.

The National Institute of Governmental Purchasing has reported an increasing trend toward purchase of small cars for economy reasons. Many cities have tried the little autos and found them highly successful. One even discovered that they are cheaper to buy and operate than motorcycles formerly used to check overtime parking.

The federal government and a number of state governments also have started to swing to the miniatures.

On the other hand, fiscal officials are beginning to voice alarm at the effect of the switch to compacts on public revenues — taxes on auto sales, motor fuel, tires, parts and accessories and license tag fees (in those states where the latter are based on the size or weight or cost of the car).

The Bureau of Public Roads, which has not appraised the effect of the trend because of inadequate statistics to date, nevertheless has declared that for each 10 per cent of standard automobile registrations replaced by compact or light vehicles, there is an indicated reduction in Highway Trust Fund revenues of between 1.5 and 2 per cent. This, the bureau says, could amount to as much as 50 million dollars a year.

That would be bad news for both Congress and the administration, who are engaged annually in a struggle to keep the interstate road program moving ahead with adequate financing.

There are some optimistic voices, of course, who say that the appeal of the compacts is to that increasing number of American families who want second cars. A petroleum industry executive has said this factor ultimately will mean an increase rather than a decrease in motor fuel use.

Until more definite data are available, though, public officials will continue to wonder what they ought to do. If they join the compact bandwagon, it well could provide a psychological shot in the arm for the already burgeoning swing to small cars, which in turn could result in a substantial drop in highway revenues.

Or there is the possibility that the swing to compacts, independently of what government agencies do, may force the public officials to resort to compacts as a way of living within their reduced revenues.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Do drinkers who toe-in feel their likker faster than those who toe-out? Is a man with a caterpillar mustache as dangerous when on highways as one with handlebar type?

These questions could be raised in rash of screwy bills proposed around country to get drunken drivers off the roads.

The New York Senate even passed a bill to determine alcoholic resistance by the driver's weight. A chart was provided showing whether the "ability to drive is impaired" pound by pound or drink by drink.

A 100-pound driver who has had 4½ ounces of 80 proof booze (or about four drinks) is held to be driving "with skill unimpaired." A 250-pound life-of-the-party guzzler is only dangerous when he is midway between 10 and 12 ounces or awash in a dozen snifters, the table says.

Anybody under 100 pounds at the wheel of a car is too sick to drive. But we have all seen a drinker with "weight off" who drinks in the 250-pound class. And there is the Fatso who is a highway threat on the alcoholic allowance of a Singer midget.

Police and courts are pretty scared even by a proposed law to apply race-track scale weights for highway pixilation steeplechase.

Would a cop have to be a weight guesser or carry a set of bathroom scales to be fair to killers? Must he wobble between two verdicts: (1) The guy is plastered (2) No, he doesn't weigh enough?

Would instructions go out to all police cars: "Watch the roads tonight! A lot of fat citizens are reported in the saloons. We had a good week due to the fact drinkers were in 100- to 140-pound class but there's been a switch in trend."

"What happened to those six drunks you arrested last night?" a police captain may ask.

"The judge let 'em off on their lawyer's claim they were entitled to an apprentice allowance," cop could reply.

GOV. ROCKEFELLER says he will build air-raid shelter in his three homes. But even with his money and ability he can't occupy all three at once.

Cuba now charges that the United States purchases of sugar at price far above market is "enslavement." Properly interpreted this is sweet talk meaning, "Treat me right and I'll kick your teeth in."

Dentists convention is to put on a TV show: "TOOTH or Consequences"?

Desi Arnaz and Lucille Ball whose deathless love routines reached TV height when birth of first baby was featured are in divorce courts, indicating once again that in California love conquers all except fame, success, rare breaks and vast riches. "I Love Lucy" now seems as hard to take as "I Love Desi."

Elvis Presley has been ribbed by this column but only in fun. The Army's most famed member is surefire stuff in the show world and can become a screen actor of Sinatra size.

Chairman of FCC is charged with spending time on a yacht of radio and TV tycoon. Maybe he felt the same right as the rest of us to feel "all at sea over what's going on in airwave situation. But presence on a yacht isn't proof of a friendly influence. There are men who, after an hour on rough sea can hate the host for life.

Actors Seek New Profit Pattern

By Victor Riesel

There's gold in those reels of celluloid America's movie producers have stacked in film vaults—which now hold about 200 million dollars worth of old pictures the movie makers want to sell to TV. These are the post - 1948 pictures. And the Screen Actors Guild is striking for a cut of at least 30 million of this buried treasure.

Victor Riesel

But there's more than glamor in this strike led by the everlasting college-type Ronnie Reagan, SAG president. This is a strike for a new kind of profit sharing.

This is a stoppage which jousts with automation in the form of paid TV, about which more later. This is the parade of the white-collar workers against the machine.

It's a costly strike for the 14,000 members of the SAG—for they have cut themselves off from an annual payroll of some 35 million dollars.

The total movie actors' payroll is more than 67 million a year. Nearly half the industry now is devoted to television entertainment pictures and commercials which are not on strike. The other—the struck half—is what is called "theatrical pictures."

THERE ARE SOME 2,500 theatrical pictures filmed after 1948 which the producers can sell to television studios for free broadcasting. This sale would bring from 190 million to 250 million dollars.

This would be above the money already made on the pictures in the movie houses over the past 12 years. So the Screen Actors say they want to share—about 15 per cent worth of the new profits.

The SAG leaders are practical businessmen despite the glamor of their executive board—which lists many of my old friends such as Walter Pidgeon, Charlton Heston, Leon Ames, Dana Andrews and Howard Keel. They claim that their followers didn't work on films for commercial sponsorship.

The Guild has contracts with some 400 independent producers saying that the actors are entitled to more money if the pictures are televised to sell some product. Now they are striking the big ones.

Furthermore, as far as the actors are concerned an automatic nightmare reared its out-of-space head the other day in a Toronto, Canada, suburb. This is pay-as-you-see television in the parlor. You put a dollar in a slot and you tune in a first-run picture.

This experiment, if successful, could bring a producer millions of dollars on a picture before and after he gets it into a movie house. The actors say they want to share in this new automated field and they won't sign away their rights to this future income.

Now it must be remembered that it is a long time since the nation's entertainers were so weak that they had to spell the word "star" backwards. They put the word "white" before it and disguised their union, known to the world as the White Rats—a sort of entertainment club.

Today the entire field is thoroughly unionized—and the most influential part of it is led by Dick Walsh, head of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes—the IA.

THIS UNION has said quietly that if the big movie producers cut the Screen Actors in on the profits of the old films—and the thousands yet to go before the cameras—the stage hands want to share the profits, too. After all, what would Elizabeth Taylor be without cameras, lights, props, grips, sound men, film editors and make-up artists.

Mrs. Eddie Fisher would be a mighty attractive lady—but she couldn't make movies. So the SAG strike is complicated by the fact that if the actors win, the whole economy of the two billion dollar movie industry is opened wide not only for a cut into the past but for future profit sharing as well.

The movie producers say they've paid for what they contracted to buy. The pictures are now their property. Why should they pay twice? If someone buys a Picasso canvas, he doesn't pay the artist a percentage of the resale profit or the gate receipts on an exhibit, the producers assert.

Meanwhile, the less glamorous, basic industrialists watch the white collar drive for profit sharing on a unit after it has been produced. This could set a pattern in the more mundane automated world.

Off To A Meeting

By Truman Twill

Nobody could enjoy meetings more than I do. You meet such interesting people.

But in behalf of everybody else who feels this way, something needs to be said about the other side of the same situation.

Every minute spent at a meeting is a minute not spent on the job. And the harsh fact is that nearly all of us who must go to meetings earn our living on the job, not at meetings.

Yet, it is the happy assumption that time consumed in attending meetings during working hours can be subtracted from working time with no net loss of output.

This leads to the common practice of having as many meetings as possible during the time that otherwise would be spent eating lunch. This is based on a bland assumption that the ingestion of food and the ingestion of whatever is to be discussed at the meeting can be handled simultaneously.

It never works that way.

The meeting always is tacked on to the end of the lunch hour, or half hour, or quarter hour, and the person attending the meeting finds to his consternation when he gets back to his job that the work has piled up so high he will be lucky if he can get out from under it in time to go to bed after a postponed evening meal.

This is, we submit, a worrisome problem of these complex and over-organized times — a problem that has grown to towering dimensions. Herewith is a solution.

It is to create in every organization one functionary whose sole duty is to attend meetings. This already is done in some places, but the solution has not become universal. It needs to be applied more generally.

Something must be done to make certain nothing happens to meetings, because otherwise there will begin to be so much resistance to this practice that it will go by the boards and the American way of life will be robbed of its favorite device for spreading responsibility so thin that if something goes wrong no individual can be blamed for it.

The committee system of getting from A to B by way of C, D, E, F, G and so on will crumple and sag. Democracy will totter. The status system's standard of values will fall apart. With no meetings being held because no one will come to them, the formerly famed American efficiency will be restored to working order and politicians will be denied the privilege of blaming their betters for not being as productive as the once notoriously inefficient Russkies.

One thought must be added here for those who do not understand the meeting system. It is the warp and woof of the civic - minded stratum of the good society that flourishes under the Bald Eagle and the Stars and Stripes, especially the woof.

There is more woofing done in this nation from the beginning of the luncheon hour until the middle of the afternoon than is done in a K-9 training base at breakfast. It is the starting place of every worthy work and the ending place of many. Yet the whole process is carried on in a left-handed way, under wraps and with no imprimatur to give it official standing.

What we are proposing is a new classification of jobholding in America to be known as "meeting attender." Applicants must be patient and like French beans and hard rolls. There are openings for thousands of citizens who otherwise would have nothing to look forward to but a life of toil.

It would be a courtesy if this were to be considered as my application. And so, off to another luncheon meeting while the work piles up and the clock races!

Legal Inconsistency

Court Ruling Seen Confusing Handbill Status

The Supreme Court of the United States added this week to the confusion and inconsistency which too often characterize its hair-splitting decisions. Even the best lawyers in the country must be baffled now in attempting to say just what the law of the land is is today with reference to the distribution of anonymous handbills.

David Lawrence

The high court struck down a Los Angeles city ordinance which required the sponsors and distributors of such handbills to identify themselves to the public. The court said this would infringe on the right of free speech and free press.

For many decades now, under a law of Congress, newspapers and other publications have faced a loss of their second class mail privileges if they did not publish at least once a year the names of their principal officers, owners and holders of their bonds or mortgages. This law has been upheld by the Supreme Court.

But if newspapers are required to disclose their ownership and managing personnel, why should another set of citizens be allowed to carry on campaigns of various kinds by distributing printed matter on the streets without having to reveal their sponsors?

THE SUPREME COURT, moreover, has upheld heretofore the law requiring that lobbyists in Congress must regularly register and disclose the identity of their sponsors. The right of disclosure has long been ruled to be a public right and in no way an infringement on the First Amendment guarantees of free speech and free press.

This is sound doctrine.

But now six justices of the Supreme Court — Black, Douglas, Warren, Brennan, Harlan and Stewart — pull back and argue that, because reprisals may be directed against the distributors of anonymous handbills, they can hereafter conceal or hide their identity.

In this case, the court related that: "The handbills urged readers to help the organization carry on a boycott against certain merchants and businessmen, whose names were given, on the ground that, as one handbill said, they carried products of "manufacturers who will not offer equal employment opportunities to Negroes, Mexicans and Orientals."

The dissenting opinion in the current case, written by Justice Clark and concurred in by Justices Frankfurter and Whittaker, points out the inconsistencies as follows:

"All that Los Angeles requires is that one who exercises his right of free speech through writing or distributing handbills identify himself just as does one who speaks from the platform.

"The ordinance makes for the responsibility in writing that is present in public utterance. When and if the application of such an ordinance in a given case encroaches on First Amendment freedoms, then will be soon enough to strike that application down. But no such restraint has been shown here. . . .

"We have upheld complete proscription of uninvited door-to-door canvassing as an invasion of privacy. Is this less restrictive than complete freedom of distribution—regardless of content—of a signed handbill? And commercial handbills may be declared verboten (forbidden) regardless of content or identification.

"Is Talley's anonymous handbill, designed to destroy the business of a commercial establishment, passed out at its very front door and attacking its then lawful commercial practices, more comportable with First Amendment freedoms? I think not. Before we may expect international responsibility among nations, might it not be well to require individual responsibility at home? Los Angeles' ordinance does no more."

THE REFERENCE in the above quotation to the distribution of "commercial handbills" was based on a New York City ordinance barring the distribution on the streets of any commercial advertising matter, even though signed or identified. The decision upholding the ordinance was handed down in 1942 in a unanimous opinion by the Supreme Court of the United States, consisting then of Justices Black, Douglas and Frankfurter of the present court membership and Justices Roberts, Murphy, Byrnes, Jackson, Reed and Chief Justice Stone.

So what it all boils down to is that a city may prohibit distribution on the streets of any commercial literature — even though signed — "puffing the wares" of a business but it cannot prohibit anyone from distributing unsigned handbills or pamphlets attacking a business or asking the public not to buy such wares.

Surely, inconsistency in the law of the land was never more dramatically revealed.

There Has Been A Change

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON — Eleven months. No victory, really. No defeat. Nothing settled or solved. And yet in these 11 months there has been a big change.

You couldn't help but feel it this week at the news conference of Christian A. Herter who just a little less than 11 months ago succeeded John Foster Dulles as secretary of state. Dulles was then dying of cancer.

Herter is a friendly, even a genial, kind of man who seems to answer questions directly. He certainly answers simply. He gives an impression of great honesty, but not an impression of great power.

Dulles was different. He talked like a man who had rehearsed—by having his aides ask him the questions newsmen might ask him—his answers beforehand, carefully down to the last phrase.

But you never had any doubt, listening to Dulles and watching him, that he had power to spare. There was never any doubt that he was speaking not only for himself but for President Eisenhower, too, and that Eisenhower approved ahead of time.

The power was there, all right. Between the time he took office in 1953 and the time he went down with cancer early in 1959 Dulles made foreign policy. No secretary of state probably ever had been so trusted by a president.

Brilliant Boy To Enter School Next Fall Before 5th Birthday

CUPERTINO, Calif. (AP) — Tousle-haired little Jimmy Engelhardt shouldn't read this. He's only 4, but he can read — newspapers and encyclopedias. He's considered a genius.

"We had hoped there would be no publicity," said his daddy, Edward J. Engelhardt, who owns a metal-plating firm in nearby San Jose, 50 miles south of San Francisco.

"Jimmy reads the papers, and we had feared the effects of publicity."

This concern was prompted by the attention focused on the New Jersey case of Alice Marie, foster daughter of Richard Combs. The state thought little, 4-year-old Alice was too bright for her parents and objected when they tried to adopt her.

The New Jersey welfare board wants to place Alice Marie in some other home, where it considers she may have more opportunity.

Jimmy Engelhardt is the youngest of six children. News about him reached officials of the Cupertino School District. Glenn Atkinson, trustee of the district, suggested that educational guidance experts pre-test the child with a view to entering him in school.

After listening to and watching Jimmy, the officials decided he should be entered in school next September. He won't be 5 until next Dec. 2. Children in California normally enter kindergarten at 5.

"He learned to read before he was 2, first from labels on grocery foods and then from TV commercials," Engelhardt said. "The only time we've helped him is when he gets stuck on big words."

There are 35 possible dates on which Easter Day can occur, between March 22nd and April 25.

Holt To Request Revocation Of 5 School Charters Monday

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Recommendations to revoke five high school charters will be made Monday by Supt. E. E. Holt when the State Board of Education meets.

The revocation requests involve four Champaign County schools—Christiansburg-Jackson, Salem, Urbana and Harrison-Adams locals—and Bennington (Marengo) in Morrow County.

Holt said these all have enrollment below minimum state standards and inspectors found limited programs of study, inadequate libraries and other defects.

Holt also will recommend granting charters to: Granville High School (Licking County), Poland Seminary and Junior High Schools (Mahoning) and Maplewood High (Trumbull).

Also on the board's agenda is a proposed transfer of territory annexed by the city of Warren through ordinance from Howland Local School District. The board turned down the transfer Dec. 9, 1957. Holt does not favor the transfer.

Among other things, Holt said the tax valuation of the annexed territory is $6,500,000—"Disproportionately high to the number (15) of school pupils residing in the territory." And he said a cross-check of signatures on petitions from residents wishing the territory transferred or kept in Howland District "reveals that several residents signed both petitions."

In another annexation matter, he will recommend that the Warren Board of Education pay the Warren Twp. Board of Education $6,751.

Brilliant Boy To Enter School Next Fall Before 5th Birthday

CUPERTINO, Calif. (AP) — Tousle-haired little Jimmy Engelhardt shouldn't read this. He's only 4, but he can read — newspapers and encyclopedias. He's considered a genius.

But little Jim doesn't know that. He'd rather play in mud with his little friends.

"We had hoped there would be no publicity," said his daddy, Edward J. Engelhardt, who owns a metal-plating firm in nearby San Jose, 50 miles south of San Francisco.

"Jimmy reads the papers, and we had feared the effects of publicity."

This concern was prompted by the attention focused on the New Jersey case of Alice Marie, foster daughter of Richard Combs. The state thought little, 4-year-old Alice was too bright for her parents and objected when they tried to adopt her.

The New Jersey welfare board wants to place Alice Marie in some other home, where it considers she may have more opportunity.

Jimmy Engelhardt is the youngest of six children. News about him reached officials of the Cupertino School District. Glenn Atkinson, trustee of the district, suggested that educational guidance experts pre-test the child with a view to entering him in school.

After listening to and watching Jimmy, the officials decided he should be entered in school next September. He won't be 5 until next Dec. 2. Children in California normally enter kindergarten at 5.

"He learned to read before he was 2, first from labels on grocery foods and then from TV commercials," Engelhardt said. "The only time we've helped him is when he gets stuck on big words."

There are 35 possible dates on which Easter Day can occur, between March 22nd and April 25.

Holt To Request Revocation Of 5 School Charters Monday

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Recommendations to revoke five high school charters will be made Monday by Supt. E. E. Holt when the State Board of Education meets.

The revocation requests involve four Champaign County schools—Christiansburg-Jackson, Salem, Urbana and Harrison-Adams locals—and Bennington (Marengo) in Morrow County.

Holt said these all have enrollment below minimum state standards and inspectors found limited programs of study, inadequate libraries and other defects.

Holt also will recommend granting charters to: Granville High School (Licking County), Poland Seminary and Junior High Schools (Mahoning) and Maplewood High (Trumbull).

Also on the board's agenda is a proposed transfer of territory annexed by the city of Warren through ordinance from Howland Local School District. The board turned down the transfer Dec. 9, 1957. Holt does not favor the transfer.

Among other things, Holt said the tax valuation of the annexed territory is $6,500,000—"Disproportionately high to the number (15) of school pupils residing in the territory." And he said a cross-check of signatures on petitions from residents wishing the territory transferred or kept in Howland District "reveals that several residents signed both petitions."

In another annexation matter, he will recommend that the Warren Board of Education pay the Warren Twp. Board of Education $6,751.

Freeway Cost Seen In April

Any discussion of the city's share of a $5.7 million California Hollow-West End Freeway should wait until definite cost estimates are ready about April 1, State Highway Director E. R. Preston told Mayor Bert H. Goodballet in a conference Thursday afternoon at Columbus.

The mayor went to Columbus to talk over the city's share of the project — estimated at $285,000— accompanied by City Engineer George S. Bloomgren and William McKenna, head of the Division 11 Highway Department office in New Philadelphia.

The local and district officials conferred with Preston and Guy Neeper, deputy director in charge of planning and programming.

Preston pointed out that plans and cost estimates for the four-lane highway are scheduled to be ready by April 1. He suggested waiting until that time, at least, to discuss the city's share—pointing out that estimates available now are not definite.

The officials went to Columbus Wednesday morning, returning Thursday night.

As part of the discussion yesterday, Preston directed that the department will resume negotiations for purchase of right - of-way for the freeway. The negotiations had been halted temporarily while the state waited on the city's decision on furnishing the municipality's share.

At the meeting in late February, the division deputy director said the state would not want to have hundreds of thousands of dollars tied up in right - of - way costs for a project that was not built.

Freeway Cost Seen In April

Any discussion of the city's share of a $5.7 million California Hollow-West End Freeway should wait until definite cost estimates are ready about April 1, State Highway Director E. R. Preston told Mayor Bert H. Goodballet in a conference Thursday afternoon at Columbus.

The mayor went to Columbus to talk over the city's share of the project — estimated at $285,000—accompanied by City Engineer George S. Bloomgren and William McKenna, head of the Division 11 Highway Department office in New Philadelphia.

The local and district officials conferred with Preston and Guy Neeper, deputy director in charge of planning and programming.

Preston pointed out that plans and cost estimates for the four-lane highway are scheduled to be ready by April 1. He suggested waiting until that time, at least, to discuss the city's share—pointing out that estimates available now are not definite.

The officials went to Columbus Wednesday morning, returning Thursday night.

As part of the discussion yesterday, Preston directed that the department will resume negotiations for purchase of right - of-way for the freeway. The negotiations had been halted temporarily while the state waited on the city's decision on furnishing the municipality's share.

At the meeting in late February, the division deputy director said the state would not want to have hundreds of thousands of dollars tied up in right - of - way costs for a project that was not built.

EXPLAINING THE background of the building plans, the union newspaper, the Potters Herald, said:

"The majority of (convention) delegates were of the opinion of the dire need for a new headquarters building to replace the present structure and so voted approval of a recommendation by the finance committee for a new international headquarters.

"It has been nine months since the convention adjourned, certainly ample time for those opposed to the mandate of the delegates to come forth with sustaining proof and the necessary requirements to ask for the repeal of the law."

The IBOP has acquired a large tract of ground on Route 7 near the intersection of Route 30 as the site for the new building.

tucky and Tennessee. Most of the areas still were digging out from the previous storm, one of the most severe in years in some sections and Kentucky's worst in history.

Freezing drizzle slicked snow-covered highways in eastern Oklahoma and western Arkansas and snow, sleet or freezing rain pelted western Kentucky and parts of Tennessee.

The Weather Bureau said the snow belt will extend eastward over much of Wisconsin and Illinois and sections of Indiana and Ohio. A mixture of rain, sleet and snow will cover areas from Kentucky and Tennessee southward over the Gulf states and eastward into the South Atlantic states.

Skies were clear in the Northeast but it was cold. Temperatures edged near zero in New England.

The effects of the storm that whipped areas from Missouri and Iowa to the Atlantic Coast Tuesday and Wednesday still were felt in many areas, especially in the South. Schools remained closed, roads were blocked and some towns were isolated. At least 32 deaths were attributed to the stormy weather.

Gov. Luther Hodges of North Carolina ordered National Guard equipment into the snowbound mountain area where the families are marooned in Ashe, Watauga, Alleghany and Wilkes counties. The Army from Ft. Bragg sent other equipment and personnel to augment exhausted highway crews.

Lunch Counter Issue Spreads To Arkansas

By The Associated Press

Negro discontent over segregated lunch counters has spread to Arkansas, but the situation has eased in Montgomery, Ala., where Negro student leaders called a temporary halt to demonstrations.

The leaders voted Thursday night to suspended their campaign for integrated food service until after spring vacation at Alabama State College, a Negro institution.

Their action came on the heels of an order by Gov. John Patterson for a full investigation of the school. Police Commissioner L. B. Sullivan recommended to Patterson and the state Board of Education that it consider closing the school claiming faculty members are unable to control the students.

Meanwhile, a college official said about two-thirds of the 2,300-member Alabama State student body met Thursday night and agreed to refrain from any further demonstrations.

The official, who asked that his name be withheld, said the students agreed that they should resume their classes and "disassociate themselves from any future agitative moves."

Five Negro college students were scheduled for arraignment in Municipal Court at Little Rock today on charges growing out of a lunch counter demonstration. More than 50 students took seats at a downtown lunch counter Thursday.

All but five left at police request. The five were jailed, then released on $100 bond posted by L. C. Bates, Arkansas field secretary for the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People.

The Negroes were charged under two Arkansas laws covering disturbances in semi-public places such as stores and restaurants.

There was no violence and the demonstration was orderly.

At times, snow can be useful.

Firemen were called to the 900 block on St. Clair Ave. Thursday afternoon by an auto fire.

But the blaze was out on arrival. The unidentified motorist used snow to extinguish the fire, which apparently started from anti-freeze or grease on the motor, firemen said.

The department was called to E. 8th and College Sts. at 6:17 p. m. yesterday only to find the call from Box 115 was a false alarm.

EXPLAINING THE background of the building plans, the union newspaper, the Potters Herald, said:

"The majority of (convention) delegates were of the opinion of the dire need for a new headquarters building to replace the present structure and so voted approval of a recommendation by the finance committee for a new international headquarters.

"It has been nine months since the convention adjourned, certainly ample time for those opposed to the mandate of the delegates to come forth with sustaining proof and the necessary requirements to ask for the repeal of the law."

tucky and Tennessee. Most of the areas still were digging out from the previous storm, one of the most severe in years in some sections and Kentucky's worst in history.

Freezing drizzle slicked snow-covered highways in eastern Oklahoma and western Arkansas and snow, sleet or freezing rain pelted western Kentucky and parts of Tennessee.

The Weather Bureau said the snow belt will extend eastward over much of Wisconsin and Illinois and sections of Indiana and Ohio. A mixture of rain, sleet and snow will cover areas from Kentucky and Tennessee southward over the Gulf states and eastward into the South Atlantic states.

Skies were clear in the Northeast but it was cold. Temperatures edged near zero in New England.

The effects of the storm that whipped areas from Missouri and Iowa to the Atlantic Coast Tuesday and Wednesday still were felt in many areas, especially in the South. Schools remained closed, roads were blocked and some towns were isolated. At least 32 deaths were attributed to the stormy weather.

Gov. Luther Hodges of North Carolina ordered National Guard equipment into the snowbound mountain area where the families are marooned in Ashe, Watauga, Alleghany and Wilkes counties. The Army from Ft. Bragg sent other equipment and personnel to augment exhausted highway crews.

Lunch Counter Issue Spreads To Arkansas

By The Associated Press

Negro discontent over segregated lunch counters has spread to Arkansas, but the situation has eased in Montgomery, Ala., where Negro student leaders called a temporary halt to demonstrations.

The leaders voted Thursday night to suspended their campaign for integrated food service until after spring vacation at Alabama State College, a Negro institution.

Their action came on the heels of an order by Gov. John Patterson for a full investigation of the school. Police Commissioner L. B. Sullivan recommended to Patterson and the state Board of Education that it consider closing the school claiming faculty members are unable to control the students.

Meanwhile, a college official said about two-thirds of the 2,300-member Alabama State student body met Thursday night and agreed to refrain from any further demonstrations.

The official, who asked that his name be withheld, said the students agreed that they should resume their classes and "disassociate themselves from any future agitative moves."

Five Negro college students were scheduled for arraignment in Municipal Court at Little Rock today on charges growing out of a lunch counter demonstration. More than 50 students took seats at a downtown lunch counter Thursday.

All but five left at police request. The five were jailed, then released on $100 bond posted by L. C. Bates, Arkansas field secretary for the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People.

The Negroes were charged under two Arkansas laws covering disturbances in semi-public places such as stores and restaurants.

There was no violence and the demonstration was orderly.

Seniors May Pick Training In Army

Sgt. Emuel Bosley, city Army recruiter, said young men who will graduate this spring now can reserve their choice of technical training school from more than 100 courses now available under the Army's technical training program.

Men enlisting under the program will receive, before enlisting, a written guarantee from the Depattment of the Army, Washington, stating that they will attend the school of their choice.

Further, the individual will take a battery of aptitude tests, before enlisting, to assure him that he is qualified for, and will receive the school of his choice without additional qualification. Army enlistments are for three years. Sgt. Bosley said the Army is the only service to give written guarantees pledging choice of school to the individual.

The Army Recruiting Main Station at Pittsburgh will be open on Saturdays — April 2 and 30 and May 14 — to permit high school seniors to receive their mental and physical examinations without missing school days.

Men of the tri-state area who wish to take advantage of the program, after graduation, were urged to make application as soon as possible, Sgt. Bosley said. Information may be obtained at the Army Recruiting Station at the post office building in East Liverpool or phone FU. 6-4262.

what's new at Olsen's

Fashion Panorama

"Ollie Olsen"

Spring begins with a new suit. The "fashion image" of spring's new chanel jacket silhouette leaves no doubt that here we have news in fabric, color and shape. Add to this the invaluable ingredient of wearability and you have the season's most popular suit fashion. The slim and easy look. To round out the picture there's the walking suit and of-course the gently fitted, gently bloused soft suit, often with the bat wing look to provide a true dress like flavor. All of these tell the same story of top width, smooth shoulder and a slim, slim skirt. This is fashion's new look in suits for spring.

You will be more than pleased with the wonderful selection of Easter suits at Olsen's. You will thrill to the many styles and colors. Of course our favorite is the suit with the chanel jacket. With all the little touches that loom so big. Boxey little jackets in checks, stripes or solids. Some trimmed with saucer like buttons, some with perky little bows, each one a gem. You will have a problem trying to decide which is best for you. But we're sure you will not have any problem with the budget saving price of only $10.79. Sizes 10-16, 7-15.

For the woman who is hard to fit. Olsen's just received a new shipment of half size dresses. Dresses with all the style and detail of the straight size. If you have a figure problem you will love the beautiful new spring styles especially designed to fit and flatter you. Cut just a little fuller in the bust and hip line. Just a little shorter in the waist line. Which all adds up to a perfect fitting dress. A beautiful array of prints, solid crepes and arnel jerseys. And a beautiful price too, for the budget conscience woman who wears a 14½ to 24½. Just $8.79 and up.

The nicest news we know—yes, Spring is coming—believe it or not. And the best way to greet spring is with a new bonnet. We saw the most beautiful collection of spring hats at Olsen's today. Just unpacked. Just delightful. The new frothy and quite frankly, lady-like hats that are the goal of every woman when she dreams of a new hat. Never before have brims been worn with such a flair, have crowns been so high or have flowers grown with such an abundance. Yes, flowers that will truly baffle the butterflies, they look so real. And colors that more than match the rainbow. Hats that will compliment any suit or coat. Better hurry to get the best of these beauties. All priced from $1.88 up.

We saw the stars of the spring parade in Olsen's accessory department. Gloves, scarves, jewelry and handbags. A galaxy of these important accompaniments to your spring wardrobe. Handbags that are breath-taking beauties in icy Vinyl plastic. We saw dozens of styles and shapes. Vinyl over pressed flowers, or picturesque scenes, in a brilliant array of colors. So delicate and feminine looking. Then of course the gleaming patents and colorful leathers, too. Each one a beauty. You'll thrill to the price, just $2.88 plus tax.

what's new at Olsen's

Fashion Panorama

"Ollie Olsen"

Spring begins with a new suit. The "fashion image" of spring's new chanel jacket silhouette leaves no doubt that here we have news in fabric, color and shape. Add to this the invaluable ingredient of wearability and you have the season's most popular suit fashion. The slim and easy look. To round out the picture there's the walking suit and of course the gently fitted, gently bloused soft suit, often with the bat wing look to provide a true dress like flavor. All of these tell the same story of top width, smooth shoulder and a slim, slim skirt. This is fashion's new look in suits for spring.

You will be more than pleased with the wonderful selection of Easter suits at Olsen's. You will thrill to the many styles and colors. Of course our favorite is the suit with the chanel jacket. With all the little touches that loom so big. Boxey little jackets in checks, stripes or solids. Some trimmed with saucer like buttons, some with perky little bows, each one a gem. You will have a problem trying to decide which is best for you. But we're sure you will not have any problem with the budget saving price of only $10.79. Sizes 10-16, 7-15.

For the woman who is hard to fit. Olsen's just received a new shipment of half size dresses. Dresses with all the style and detail of the straight size. If you have a figure problem you will love the beautiful new spring styles especially designed to fit and flatter you. Cut just a little fuller in the bust and hip line. Just a little shorter in the waist line. Which all adds up to a perfect fitting dress. A beautiful array of prints, solid crepes and arnel jerseys. And a beautiful price too, for the budget conscience woman who wears a 14½ to 24½. Just $8.79 and up.

The nicest news we know—yes, Spring is coming—believe it or not. And the best way to greet spring is with a new bonnet. We saw the most beautiful collection of spring hats at Olsen's today. Just unpacked. Just delightful. The new frothy and quite frankly, lady-like hats that are the goal of every woman when she dreams of a new hat. Never before have brims been worn with such a flair, have crowns been so high or have flowers grown with such an abundance. Yes, flowers that will truly baffle the butterflies, they look so real. And colors that more than match the rainbow. Hats that will compliment any suit or coat. Better hurry to get the best of these beauties. All priced from $1.88 up.

We saw the stars of the spring parade in Olsen's accessory department. Gloves, scarves, jewelry and handbags. A galaxy of these important accompaniments to your spring wardrobe. Handbags that are breath-taking beauties in icy Vinyl plastic. We saw dozens of styles and shapes. Vinyl over pressed flowers, or picturesque scenes, in a brilliant array of colors. So delicate and feminine looking. Then of course the gleaming patents and colorful leathers, too. Each one a beauty. You'll thrill to the price, just $2.88 plus tax.

Greenisen's appointment was announced at a meeting of the County Cancer Society Thursday night at the Courthouse at Lisbon.

A member of the board of the county unit for seven years, Greenisen has been drive chairman for Granges and rural areas in the past.

Greenisen, discussing the campaign which starts April 1, urged "all public spirited citizens to make this a full scale offensive against cancer— Public Enemy Disease No. 2 in the county today."

"Cancer control is a year-round program, but this is the time of the year when we go all - out to save more lives, when we ring doorbells and collect funds to sustain the ever - increasing momentum of war against this enemy of mankind."

Mrs. Gertrude Reese of East Liverpool will act as co-ordinator for the drive. Area chairman will be announced next week, Mrs. Edna Jones, president of the unit, said.

Miss Joan Witt, education chairman, reviewed available literature and films, and displayed material used at the Tri-State Science Fair. She said the unit will have a display at the Lisbon Science Fair over the weekend.

It was announced Charles Neal of Lisbon will represent the county at the second Ohio Cured Cancer Assembly at Columbus April 3.

ment of indebtedness if voters fail to approve the project.

The borough has 4½ acres donated by Crucible as a site for the plant. The company promised 1½ acres in 1921 and added 3 acres in 1956. Plans were prepared by the Chester Engineers, Inc., of Pittsburgh and have been revised as of 1957.

The plant will be located near the west limits of the borough on the former Crucible property between the main and spur lines of the railroad tracks.

The delay mainly resulted from efforts to get federal aid but requests were turned down because of the borough's "healthy financial" condition.

Atty. Robert Masters, borough solicitor, explained that the plant will be paid for by borough funds rather than by the operation revenues.

He said this enables the borough to finance the project through general obligation bonds rather than by revenue bonds at cheaper cost.

The proposal will be certified to the Beaver County Election Board for a place on the April ballot.

Council accepted the auditors' report of the borough's books for 1959 but withheld their pay until two minor corrections are made. Total receipts were listed as $464,571.12 and expenditures $455,029.40.

Fixed assets of $1,527,000 and current assets of $76,507.43 gave total assets of $1,603,506.43. Liabilities totaled $250,000.

Borough auditors are Nicholas G. Zapsic, Anna Vidakovich, and William Shovlin.

Mrs. C. K. O'Hara, secretary, read letters from Gov. David Lawrence's office and from Park H. Martin, secretary of the Pennsylvania Department of Highways, concerning the sliding condition of a section of Route 68 just west of the borough.

Council had sent pictures of the road and of a 3-car accident Jan. 30 in which 2 persons were killed. The governor and director replied that the section has been blacktopped, parallel drains installed and that some 300 tons of granulated slag was applied. More permanent repairs were promised.

The section was repaired after the accident and again after more slipping. There were reports that the section dropped another four inches.

Willie Hudson, 310 Penn Ave., was given permission to cut curbing for a driveway.

A borough-owned house next to the incinerator plant was rented to Earl McDole for $30 monthly and he will assist Rocco Stevenson, dog warden.

Council approved advertising for bids for purchase of a new police cruiser. A 1958 Dodge will be traded in. Council bought a new car to replace a 1958 Ford at its last meeting. Bids will be received at its meeting April 14.

Mrs. Ruby Ingraham of Sunrise Hills proposed that the 300-acre housing development be taken within the borough for future expansion.

Steve Germusa, president, replied that Council cannot act until after the borough's comprehensive plan is completed. He said she should make her offer to the Planning Commission to be included in its recommendations to Council.

On a motion by Councilman Joe D'Alesio, Council accepted borough officers' reports without reading. Bills were ordered paid. Councilman Harvey Sponcer was absent.

Surplus United States grains and oils worth 35 million dollars will be shipped to Turkey under a 1959 agreement. The shipments will include wheat, corn, cottonseed oil and soybean oil.

Rotary Hears Chamber Aide

The growth and influence of the Chamber of Commerce was outlined for members of the Midland Rotary Club Thursday evening by Edward Robbins, member of the club and also secretary of the Midland Chamber.

The club met at the New Riviera Restaurant. Robbins traced the history of the Midland Chamber. He said it was started in 1939 and was known as the Board of Trade.

Among many civic projects and ideas initiated by the Chamber are street lighting at Christmas, uniform store hours, the swimming pool, Community Chest and the borough's comprehensive plan.

It was announced that the Board of Directors has approved the purchase of club identifications signs to be placed with others at entrances to the borough on Midland Ave.

Instead of the regular meeting next Thursday, members will attend the Easter Seal "kickoff" dinner at the First Presbyterian Church in Beaver at 6:30 p. m. The speaker will be Joseph J. Foss, World War II hero, former governor of South Dakota and president of the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults, Inc., which sponsors the seal sale.

Insurance Men Told 'Settle Case Or Else'

LISBON — Judge Joel H. Sharp Thursday gave David M. Patterson and Harold L. Lower, insurance agents, a week to settle their damage case or he would decide the amount.

Patterson, Leetonia insurance man, last October sued the former Lisbon insurance agent now residing in Columbiana, claiming that when he purchased the Lower agency in January 1956, Lower agreed not to engage in insurance in the county for 5 years or he would pay a penalty of $25 a day.

Lower asked the court to declare the agreement void but Judge Sharp declared it is legal, adding he doesn't know if $25 a day "was damages or a penalty." Lower claimed he advised Patterson of his intention to return to the insurance business and the objection of the plaintiff had been negotiated and waved.

Beaver Student Wins $2,000 Scholarship

Miss Krispen Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Moore of Longvue Heights, and a senior at Beaver Local High School, has been awarded a $2,000 scholarship to Allegheny College at Meadville, Pa.

A total of $28,600, applicable against tuition fees, was awarded to the 13 top entrants. There were 3 national scholarships of $4,200 each, and first and second awards of $2,000 and $1,200 in each geographic district.

The award to Miss Moore was made on the basis of a competitive examination given some 475 high school students in late January and early February.

Trustees Ask Support Of Center's Fire Levy

LISBON — Center Township trustees today opened a campaign for support of the four-tenths mill levy for fire protection, which will be up for renewal at the May 3 primaries.

In effect since 1952, the levy is needed to provide fire protection, Clerk Richard T. Mason said. He pointed out that only township residents outside the Lisbon village limits will be eligible to vote on the issue.

A capacity crowd of about 1,200 attended the fourth annual Westgate Talent Review, sponsored by the Student Council, Thursday night at the school. Seventy students of the Junior High School participated.

School District Holds Conference On Reading

Jack Baker, executive head of the Southern Local School District, reported that a second reading conference was held Thursday afternoon at the Highlandtown school.

He said a reading program of the Economy Co. of Indianapolis was discussed by two company representatives, Robert Berry and Joseph Lauber. Baker said the program has phonetic keys to reading and is a compromise between phonetics and sight memorization of words.

It is a basic program for the first three grades. He said the program will be recommended to the Board of Education for adoption by the county.

Teachers of the first three grades attended. A pre-school clinic is being planned for the last part of April or the first of May. A definite date will be announced, Baker said.

In the month of July, 1959, there were 2,190,000 persons on government payrolls.

Council had sent pictures of the road and of a 3-car accident Jan. 30 in which 2 persons were killed. The governor and director replied that the section has been blacktopped, parallel drains installed and that some 300 tons of granulated slag was applied. More permanent repairs were promised.

The section was repaired after the accident and again after more slipping. There were reports that the section dropped another four inches.

Willie Hudson, 310 Penn Ave., was given permission to cut curbing for a driveway.

A borough-owned house next to the incinerator plant was rented to Earl McDole for $30 monthly and he will assist Rocco Stevenson, dog warden.

Council approved advertising for bids for purchase of a new police cruiser. A 1958 Dodge will be traded in. Council bought a new car to replace a 1958 Ford at its last meeting. Bids will be received at its meeting April 14.

Mrs. Ruby Ingraham of Sunrise Hills proposed that the 300-acre housing development be taken within the borough for future expansion.

Steve Germusa, president, replied that Council cannot act until after the borough's comprehensive plan is completed. He said she should make her offer to the Planning Commission to be included in its recommendations to Council.

On a motion by Councilman Joe D'Alesio, Council accepted borough officers' reports without reading. Bills were ordered paid. Councilman Harvey Sponcer was absent.

Surplus United States grains and oils worth 35 million dollars will be shipped to Turkey under a 1959 agreement. The shipments will include wheat, corn, cottonseed oil and soybean oil.

Rotary Hears Chamber Aide

The growth and influence of the Chamber of Commerce was outlined for members of the Midland Rotary Club Thursday evening by Edward Robbins, member of the club and also secretary of the Midland Chamber.

The club met at the New Riviera Restaurant. Robbins traced the history of the Midland Chamber. He said it was started in 1939 and was known as the Board of Trade.

Among many civic projects and ideas initiated by the Chamber are street lighting at Christmas, uniform store hours, the swimming pool, Community Chest and the borough's comprehensive plan.

It was announced that the Board of Directors has approved the purchase of club identifications signs to be placed with others at entrances to the borough on Midland Ave.

Instead of the regular meeting next Thursday, members will attend the Easter Seal "kickoff" dinner at the First Presbyterian Church in Beaver at 6:30 p. m. The speaker will be Joseph J. Foss, World War II hero, former governor of South Dakota and president of the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults, Inc., which sponsors the seal sale.

Insurance Men Told 'Settle Case Or Else'

LISBON — Judge Joel H. Sharp Thursday gave David M. Patterson and Harold L. Lower, insurance agents, a week to settle their damage case or he would decide the amount.

Patterson, Leetonia insurance man, last October sued the former Lisbon insurance agent now residing in Columbiana, claiming that when he purchased the Lower agency in January 1956, Lower agreed not to engage in insurance in the county for 5 years or he would pay a penalty of $25 a day.

Lower asked the court to declare the agreement void but Judge Sharp declared it is legal, adding he doesn't know if $25 a day "was damages or a penalty." Lower claimed he advised Patterson of his intention to return to the insurance business and the objection of the plaintiff had been negotiated and waved.

A total of $28,600, applicable against tuition fees, was awarded to the 13 top entrants. There were 3 national scholarships of $4,200 each, and first and second awards of $2,000 and $1,200 in each geographic district.

The award to Miss Moore was made on the basis of a competitive examination given some 475 high school students in late January and early February.

In effect since 1952, the levy is needed to provide fire protection, Clerk Richard T. Mason said. He pointed out that only township residents outside the Lisbon village limits will be eligible to vote on the issue.

School District Holds Conference On Reading

Jack Baker, executive head of the Southern Local School District, reported that a second reading conference was held Thursday afternoon at the Highlandtown school.

He said a reading program of the Economy Co. of Indianapolis was discussed by two company representatives, Robert Berry and Joseph Lauber. Baker said the program has phonetic keys to reading and is a compromise between phonetics and sight memorization of words.

It is a basic program for the first three grades. He said the program will be recommended to the Board of Education for adoption by the county.

Teachers of the first three grades attended. A pre-school clinic is being planned for the last part of April or the first of May. A definite date will be announced, Baker said.

In the month of July, 1959, there were 2,190,000 persons on government payrolls.

Pittsburgh Teacher Tells Of Spanking Male Pupils

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Teacher Bohdan Pashkowsky says he paddled some 30 male pupils because they didn't know that Pittsburgh is the steel capital of the world, plus some other answers.

The 30-year-old social sciences teacher, under suspension at Langley High School, defended the mass whippings Thursday.

Pashkowsky said he paddled the pupils Tuesday after he spent four or five days on material about the Middle Atlantic States. The boys were in four eighth grade classes he teaches. No girls were paddled.

"I told them we would have a quiz on this material on Tuesday," he explained. "I warned them if they didn't know the answers they would get paddled or detained. On Tuesday I quizzed the boys one by one. If they knew the answers they were rewarded with good grades. But if they didn't, they knew what to expect.

"I paddled about 30 out of the four classes. I used a wooden paddle. I didn't hurt any of them. Each one got one swat. It was by their own choice. They could have taken detention. Three boys did.

"I excused from paddling those with extremely low IQ's and the physically weak—the anemic looking ones."

Principal Harry Book, who suspended Pashkowsky, explained that corporal punishment is permitted in Pittsburgh public schools only when the provocation is "very real."

Spending his early life in the Ukraine, Pashkowsky came to America 13 years ago. He was a laborer in a German concentration camp during World War II and served in the U.S. Army in the Korean conflict. He attended Kings College in Wilkes Barre and has been teaching in Pittsburgh three years.

A school board official said Pashkowsky would be given a hearing for reinstatement, probably on March 17.

Church Appeals Planned Here In Red Cross Drive

Saturday and Sunday have been designated as "Red Cross Sabbath" and "Sunday", with clergymen of the city being asked to make references to the local Red Cross campaign in their weekly services.

James Locke, campaign chairman, also announced that to stimulate public interest in the observance imprinted church program covers have been furnished free to most of the downtown churches.

Details of the program were arranged through the cooperation of the East Liverpool Ministerial Association. Red Cross literature and program reports were sent local ministers, along with letters requesting their participation in the observance.

In seeking their help, Locke emphasized that "church leaders, more than any of us, are aware of the needs of people who are to be helped by Red Cross. Thus, they are the logical group to transmit that appeal. They know, too, the truth in this year's campaign slogan — Good Things Happen When You Give. We sincerely appreciate their fine cooperation."

Consumer Income To Be Determined

Special questions on consumer income, educational attainment, literacy and family characteristics will be asked in the U. S. Census Bureau's Current Population Survey in March, according to Director Edgar L. Bryan of the bureau's regional field office at Pittsburgh.

The special questions will be in addition to the regular employment and unemployment inquiries which are asked each month.

The supervisor emphasized that all information about individuals furnished to the Census Bureau is held in absolute confidence under Federal law. It is used only to obtain summary figures such as totals, averages and percentages for various groups in the population and not to show information for particular families or individuals. The information cannot be used for investigation, taxation or regulation.

The Current Population Survey will be conducted locally and in 329 other areas of the country next week.

Applications may be obtained from local board offices and must be postmarked not later than midnight, April 7, Blake said.

The test will be given at, in addition to WVU, Concord, Bluefield State, Morris Harvey, Fairmont State, Marshall, West Virginia State, Shepherd and West Liberty State colleges and West Virginia Tech.

Ohio Farmers' Net Income Dropped 15% During '59

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ohio farmers have been taking a beating where it hurts—in their pocketbooks. Their average net income dropped 15 per cent in 1959, compared with the preceding year.

The Agriculture Department figures the average Ohio farmer had a net income of $1,812 in 1959.

Generally speaking, this can be compared with the salary of an office clerk or mill worker in town. In other words, out of this he pays taxes, living expenses and all the rest.

Most farmers with such low incomes have to find a second job in town.

As to what happened to the Ohio farmer in 1959, the Agriculture Department sums it up this way:

"Substantial declines were registered in receipts from hogs, wheat and eggs. These were only partially offset by increases in receipts from corn.

"Production expenses were up slightly because of increases in depreciation, repair and operation of capital items and fertilizer and lime."

All this, naturally, is of concern to the Ohio Farm Bureau, an organization of rich and poor farmers alike.

So next week, March 14-16, a delegation of 40 Ohio Farm Bureau members will make their annual trip to Washington to see their congressmen and Agriculture Department officials.

"We plan to discuss a proposed doubling of the present conservation reserve program, which the Farm Bureau supports," says Ferris Owen of Newark, president of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation.

"This issue will be the major farm program proposal in Congress this year."

Some Democrats in Congress are opposing doubling this program, an arrangement whereby farmers take land out of production in return for cash payments. These opponents say it favors the wealthy farmer with lots of land to spare.

Other issues the Ohioans will discuss are (1) a "sensible" wheat program, (2) whether to tax cooperatives, and (3) federal aid to education, opposed by the Ohio Farm Bureau.

The Farm Bureau figures that the drop in farm income may bring forth an attempt for a more workable farm program in this election year.

Democrats on the agriculture committees of Congress are inclined to agree. But it is highly doubtful their proposal for more controls would arouse anything but stiff opposition from the Farm Bureau.

Something, nevertheless, may come out of this Congress for the farmer, even if it's a bill that President Eisenhower is sure to veto.

Xenia Demonstration Added 'Fuel To Fires,' DiSalle Says

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The recent demonstration by Negroes against a Xenia restaurant which refused them service "merely added fuel to the fires of those who are opposed to democracy," Gov. Michael V. DiSalle said Thursday.

"I think you are off-base to advise them to stop," the editor said. He asserted the demonstrations were not out of order and students lacked money to finance court actions.

DiSalle replied:

"I do not feel that a defect that might be noted in a democratic system can be used as a justification for violating the basic premise upon which a democracy is founded.

"This basic premise, as I see it, is one of people working together to establish a soundly ordered society with the majority ruling, keeping always in mind the rights of the minority."

DiSalle pointed out to Howard that the last Legislature created a Civil Rights Commission to act on complaints against discrimination in an orderly manner.

"The demonstration added nothing, created resentment in many areas and merely added fuel to the fires of those who are opposed to democracy, who are opposed to civil rights, and who feed on bigotry," DiSalle said.

Admit Car Stealing

BATAVIA, Ohio (AP) — The Highway Patrol says three men have admitted operating a car-stealing service in this area for an auto junk yard somewhere in Tennessee. The patrol Thursday arrested James Tomamichael, 24, Glen Seiber, 27, and Al Newkirk, 24, staying at a Milford hotel, and charged them with auto theft. Investigators said the three admitted taking specific types of cars sought by the Tennessee firm.

Late Civil War Vet's Daughter Ill, Destitute

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A daughter of the late Walter Williams, last veteran of the Civil War, disclosed Thursday she is ill and destitute.

She is Willie Mae Bowles, 52. Her father, 117, died Dec. 19 ending four years of attendance at his bedside for her.

Mrs. Bowles said a utility company sent her a final notice and plans to turn off the gas and "I'll probably be getting notices from the other utilities any day."

She came home Tuesday after spending 10 days in a hospital following an operation. She lives alone and said she has no income.

"Daddy got two pensions, one from the federal government for $135 a month and one from the state for $300. I thought I would get part of the state money through the 19th, but I didn't. It stopped when he died," she said.

County welfare workers said they would look into the case.

So next week, March 14-16, a delegation of 40 Ohio Farm Bureau members will make their annual trip to Washington to see their congressmen and Agriculture Department officials.

"We plan to discuss a proposed doubling of the present conservation reserve program, which the Farm Bureau supports," says Ferris Owen of Newark, president of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation.

"This issue will be the major farm program proposal in Congress this year."

Some Democrats in Congress are opposing doubling this program, an arrangement whereby farmers take land out of production in return for cash payments. These opponents say it favors the wealthy farmer with lots of land to spare.

Other issues the Ohioans will discuss are (1) a "sensible" wheat program, (2) whether to tax cooperatives, and (3) federal aid to education, opposed by the Ohio Farm Bureau.

The Farm Bureau figures that the drop in farm income may bring forth an attempt for a more workable farm program in this election year.

Democrats on the agriculture committees of Congress are inclined to agree. But it is highly doubtful their proposal for more controls would arouse anything but stiff opposition from the Farm Bureau.

Something, nevertheless, may come out of this Congress for the farmer, even if it's a bill that President Eisenhower is sure to veto.

Xenia Demonstration Added 'Fuel To Fires,' DiSalle Says

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The recent demonstration by Negroes against a Xenia restaurant which refused them service "merely added fuel to the fires of those who are opposed to democracy," Gov. Michael V. DiSalle said Thursday.

"I think you are off-base to advise them to stop," the editor said. He asserted the demonstrations were not out of order and students lacked money to finance court actions.

DiSalle replied:

"I do not feel that a defect that might be noted in a democratic system can be used as a justification for violating the basic premise upon which a democracy is founded.

"This basic premise, as I see it, is one of people working together to establish a soundly ordered society with the majority ruling, keeping always in mind the rights of the minority."

DiSalle pointed out to Howard that the last Legislature created a Civil Rights Commission to act on complaints against discrimination in an orderly manner.

"The demonstration added nothing, created resentment in many areas and merely added fuel to the fires of those who are opposed to democracy, who are opposed to civil rights, and who feed on bigotry," DiSalle said.

BATAVIA, Ohio (AP) — The Highway Patrol says three men have admitted operating a car-stealing service in this area for an auto junk yard somewhere in Tennessee. The patrol Thursday arrested James Tomamichael, 24, Glen Seiber, 27, and Al Newkirk, 24, staying at a Milford hotel, and charged them with auto theft. Investigators said the three admitted taking specific types of cars sought by the Tennessee firm.

Late Civil War Vet's Daughter Ill, Destitute

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A daughter of the late Walter Williams, last veteran of the Civil War, disclosed Thursday she is ill and destitute.

She is Willie Mae Bowles, 52. Her father, 117, died Dec. 19 ending four years of attendance at his bedside for her.

Mrs. Bowles said a utility company sent her a final notice and plans to turn off the gas and "I'll probably be getting notices from the other utilities any day."

She came home Tuesday after spending 10 days in a hospital following an operation. She lives alone and said she has no income.

"Daddy got two pensions, one from the federal government for $135 a month and one from the state for $300. I thought I would get part of the state money through the 19th, but I didn't. It stopped when he died," she said.

County welfare workers said they would look into the case.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: My husband thinks he has a great sense of humor. More than once he has insulted people and expected them to laugh it off. When this thing happened he said: "Write to Ann Landers and see what she says. If Ann doesn't think it's funny I'll do the dishes for a week."

Last Wednesday I went to my bridge club. We usually have a 1 o'clock lunch and start to play at 2. As a rule the party breaks up at 5.

Well, this particular day we got started late and at 5:30 we were just finishing the tally. In walks my 11-year-old son and hands me a large box. He said: "This is from Daddy." I opened the box in front of everyone and there was my nightgown, toothbrush and an alarm clock.

Most of the women laughed but I think it was because they were embarrassed for me and didn't know what else to do.

What's your verdict, Ann? — HUMILIATED.

Dear Humiliated: Be sure to get a detergent that's kind to his hands.

The joke might have been amusing if you could have opened the box in private but before all your friends it was too sharp a needle.

Mustered Out

Dear Ann: Last year I married a man who used to be an officer in the Army. This is my second marriage and his first. He has many fine qualities and I guess I shouldn't complain but he is terribly strict.

My two sons are 8 and 6. They like their new dad but they fear him because he's so stern. He inspects their closets, drawers and clothing. If their posture isn't good they can't have dessert. When they speak to him they must say "Yes Sir" and "No Sir."

The other evening I unconsciously said "Yes Sir." It was then I decided to write to you. Please advice. — UNDER ORDERS.

Dear Under: Cut out the "Yes Sir, No Sir" before you get an ul-ser. Discipline balanced with justice and love never will hurt the boys but apparently there's so much rigidity in your home that even you feel like one of the troops.

Your local child guidance center will recommend helpful reading material on parent-children relationships. Give it to the Commander-in-chief so he will have a better understanding of his role as a father.

Love Thief

Dear Ann: I'm 15 and a fair student. I did a pretty scummy thing and now I don't know how to fix it up.

I had a girl friend, Roberta, who always was pretty swell to me. She was just crazy over this guy and he seemed to like her a lot, too.

The fellow I was going with was getting on my nerves so I decided to make a play for Roberta's boy friend. It worked and now I can't get him out of my hair. He phones me every night, writes love letters, buys me candy and I can't unload him.

Roberta and I are no longer friends. I'm sick of the guy but I don't want to break off with him after two weeks or it will look like I just took him away to see if I could.

What do you recommend?—BOY STEALER.

Dear Stealer: It looks that way because it is that way, so you might just as well play it straight and do something honest for a change. Strange how often, after we break all the rules to get something, we find it wasn't worth the trouble.

Ann Lander will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Understanding Seen First Reducing Step

Failure to understand why you overeat can undermine the will power that controls your eating. So pull up a chair friends, and let's cogitate on the causes back of periodic eating binges. "Help, help!" is the way one homemaker began her letter.

By Ida Jean Kain

"Last night I ate 4 or 5 little cakes and a pint of ice cream. I was so full I could scarcely move, but I just couldn't stop myself from eating. I would truly rather be dead than to be the fat, sloppy pig I used to be. Whenever I get nervous or depressed I eat like a fool. At such times my will power seems gone completely."

So that all of you will get the picture, here is her story, condensed: This overweight, by tightening her will power to the sticking point, was able to stay with a strict diet and reduce 80 pounds, from 220 to 140.

SHE DID THE reducing on a monotonous, faddy-type diet and quite naturally she never wants to see those particular foods again. Now she finds to her horror that she has lost control, goes on periodic eating sprees, and is getting fat again. She concludes her letter with . .

"I am writing this in a hurry and will mail it fast before I lose my courage. Please don't laugh. . . this is deadly serious to me."

This homemaker's courage could never be taken lightly. She succeeded in reducing but since the cause of the compulsive eating is still obscure, under pressure she is prodded into overeating to the point of real discomfort. She senses that she "eats like a fool" when nervous or depressed, but is not aware of what is back of these symptoms.

So, what to do? Recognize that the urge to eat like crazy is an attempt to satisfy some need. Since overeating in no way solves the real problem, periodic binges result.

Sometimes one can get at underlying causes by association. A start would be to pay particular attention to the thoughts and feelings you had prior to the uncontrollable urge to eat and eat.

Ask yourself some searching questions: Are you resenting anything . . . or anyone? Was this a reaction to disappointment? Did you feel deprived on any score? It is essential to try to think this through.

It is not easy, but the rewards are tremendous. When you understand more of what is troubling you underneath, the compulsion to eat excessively diminishes. This understanding is what psychiatrists term insight.

THERE IS another approach which is often needed, and that is through relaxing. Are you muscularly tense? Practice periods of deliberately tensing the various muscle groups, then methodically letting the muscles go limp.

This can be a real help. It isn't easy to train yourself to relax, but th epractice is unexpectedly rewarding.

Out Of The Air

By JOHN CROSBY

The Revue Returns To Entertainment

One thing about this season, bless its little heart, is that it has produced a revue from out of nowhere. Suddenly, without prearrangement, everyone — well, almost everyone — is doing a sort of shorthand version of revue.

John Crosby

Art Carney has done several, in one of which he did the memorable parody on "Separate Tables" that was a small masterpiece; Sid Caesar has done a couple; and "Four" for Tonight," which brought together Tammy Grimes, Beatrice Lillie, Tony Randall and Cyril Ritchard, contributed a rather different one.

The great theatrical revues of my memory were "As Thousands Cheer," which may have been the best one ever done, and "The Bandwagon."

THE REVUE FORM was a string of satiric pearls strung on a single thread or theme which sometimes got stretched pretty far. The other night Art Carney gave us "The Best of Anything," a tight, pointed, satiric, brainy little revue which was strung around the idea of awards, this being the award-happiest nation in the universe.

I won't pretend it was all great, but it had moments of rare glee. It opened with Carney playing an investigating senator (with many of Sen. Symington's mannerisms) who becomes a wild ham when the TV cameras turn on him.

Then there was a satire on the Arthur Murray party and this was pretty heavy-handed for the simple reason that the Arthur Murray party is a satire on itself to start out with.

It's almost impossible to parody. However, the spectacle of Arthur tiptoeing in his celebrated lopsided walk behind his wife's back was worth the price of admission.

NEXT CAME a satire on Leonard Bernstein's program in which Mr. Bernstein's habit of asking a question and then answering it was neatly skewered.

"Why do I do this? I think anyone would have to be a musician to understand the fantastic amount of money I get for doing this. What am I doing now? I'm walking."

There also was a parody on "Room at the Top" which was funny and sharp-witted, a cute song called "Still I Won First Prize at the Fair"; a astire on the Miss America contest which again, regrettably, was not quite as satiric as the real article; and the show finished with a funny, almost burlesque-type sketch in which a man awarded a peace prize starts a mammoth brawl at the award dinner.

I MIGHT ADD that the program contained a couple of blackouts—and they, too, seem to be coming back. A good blackout sketch is almost a two-line joke—a sight gag that should leave you gasping with laughter—quick as a flash.

Tony Randall did a couple of good ones in "Four for Tonight." In each of these programs, ideas were the star of the show.

By ideas, I mean points of view that appear to have sprung out of the newspapers or the life around us rather than out of somebody else's program which seems to be the chief source of supply out in Hollywood.

Perhaps the revue form is coming back. On Broadway, "A Thurber Carnival," a sort of human revue, has just opened to universally pleasant notices. "La Plume de Ma Tante," the French revue, runs on and on.

REVUE had been pretty dead on Broadway since "Call Me Mister" in 1946, which was the last revue written around a single theme (the Army) of universal appeal.

Television was credited with a large share of the blame for killing revue in the theater because Sid Caesar could get on the air with a subject in a week where it might take a year to get a revue on Broadway. The revues that have crept back to Broadway have avoided, you'll notice, the topical in favor of the human.

Television still has a great source of supply in topical material. I wish they'd exploit it more often.

I DOUBT very much that television ever is going to get very far with self-reform so long as John Doerfer remains chairman of the Federal Communications Commission.

Doerfer always has been an apologist for the industry rather than the trustee of the public frequencies he was appointed to be.

Toodling around on a yacht owned by a broadcaster who is operating 13 radio and television stations that are supposedly under his jurisdiction is not a criminal offense but it certainly reveals a terrible blindness towards his responsibilities.

How are we to expect standards of high probity from an industry when the public official in charge of regulating that industry seems not to know what integrity is composed of?

John Doerfer ought to resign. But since there seems little likelihood of that, President Eisenhower should dismiss him.

Survey Poses 700 Questions On Local Data

A Chamber of Commerce committee is preparing to sift through mounds of data and statistics and make a round of enquiries to answer 700 questions about East Liverpool on a form furnished by the Ohio Department of Industrial and Economic Development, its contribution toward a statewide effort to encourage establishment of new industries.

The 14-page questionnaire, and others from communities of any size throughout Ohio, will go into the agency's files in Columbus to aid it in pin-pointing sites when he receives enquiries and to help in preparation of publications explaining the state's advantages.

The bulky questionnaire was turned over to a six-man delegation from the Chamber which attended an eight - county regional meeting called by the new agency Wednesday at Canton. Koder M. Collison, director of the economic and industrial bureau, explained the purpose of the questionnaire.

The group also saw a new film promoting the state, "Ohio, the Growth State." Promotion of Ohio will not be confined to seeking industry, Collison explained. Potential tourists will be told of the scenic and historic points, including state parks and forests, he said.

The Chamber's industrial development committee expects to meet soon to go over the questionnaire, titled "Ohio Community Survey," and make preparations for gathering the data that will be required for the answers.

The questionnaire covers 16 broad subjects, with a long series of questions on each. They are: Location, topography, climate, labor supply, present industry and trade, financial institutions, housing availability, local government, communications, transportation, educational facilities, churches, health services, fire and police protection, recreation and culture and utiiities.

2 Motorists Penalized In State Patrol Cases

However, both the fine and the costs were suspended. The patrol alleged she crashed a stop sign and struck another car. She pleaded "no contest."

Richard R. Johnson of M.C. Route 22 was fined $10 and costs on a charge he crashed a stop sign Wednesday at the intersection of Routes 170 and Route 30. He pleaded guilty. The judge suspended the fine on payment of the $6 costs.

Major Disaster Averted As Train Hits Fuel Truck

MARIETTA, Ohio (AP) — Oil company workers, police and firemen averted what could have become a major disaster here Thursday after a train crashed into a tank truck loaded with highly flammable propane gas.

The crash occurred just off Ohio 7 along the Ohio river about a mile south of the city. The truck, carrying 1,700 gallons of the gas, was upset in a ditch, a hole punched in one of its 850-gallon tanks.

Both road and Ohio River traffic were halted as officials feared sparks from a cigarette or passing vehicle might ignite the explosive vapors. The crash scene was in a sparsely populated area.

Seven hours after the crash normal traffic was resumed.

Zane Meeks, of Louisa, Ky., driver of the Ashland Oil Co. truck, suffered minor injuries and was treated in a hospital. The Baltimore & Ohio freight train engineer, J. W. Miller of Zanesville, said a building near the tracks obscured his vision and he did not see the truck until it was too late.

Pennsylvanian Heads Area Explorers Club

LISBON — Chal Bruce of New Castle was elected president of the Tri-State Explorers Club at a meeting Tuesday Night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Judge of W. Lincoln Way. He succeeds Art Whan of Lisbon.

Others named were Hugh Nile of Wellsville, first vice president; H. D. Lessig of Fairfield Rd., second vice president, and Mrs. Clinton Kagy of New Castle, secretary-treasurer.

A social evening followed with 25 attending. A committee assisted the hosts in serving lunch.

The group will meet April 12 with Mr. and Mrs. Foster Shattuck, 127 E. Pine St.

Warden Plans Drive Against Dogs In Packs

Dog Warden Robert J. Croyle said today his principal objective in his new post will be to break up packs of dogs that have been roaming at will in East Liverpool, causing nuisances and property damage.

"Most of the calls I've received since assuming office have been concerned with packs of dogs," Croyle said. "When they travel in packs, dogs can cause far more complaints than the same number of individual animals."

Packs of dogs generally are made up of animals that have been abandoned or neglected by their owners to the point that they take to the streets in search of food, Croyle pointed out. When a family moves out of a neighborhood and leaves a pet behind, it's certain to join one of the roving packs, he added.

"I hope we never have anything like it in East Liverpool, but there was a case in St. Louis a few years ago in which a pack of 20 roving dogs attacked and killed a 2-year-old boy for food," Croyle said.

Although the warden is the city's dog control officer, the primary responsibility for controlling the animals is placed against the owners by state law, he pointed out. A dog's owner can be held legally responsible for property damage his pet commits, such as destroying shrubbery or digging up flowers, Croyle asserted.

"I'm not a catcher and destroyer of dogs," Croyle said. "I'm a dog-lover. My primary duty is to control dogs, protect the public against the ones that stray and protect the dogs against animal-haters." Croyle said investigation of some instances of allegedly "vicious dogs" has shown that the dog attacked after he was kicked or otherwise mistreated.

He warned again that the state law requires all dogs must be licensed, even those confined on the owners' premises in compliance with state statutes.

County Farm Agent Speaker For Kiwanis

Floyd Lower of Lisbon, Columbiana County agriculture agent, spoke about 4-H work and lawn care at a meeting of the Kiwanis Club Thursday at the Travelers Hotel.

Lower said there are some 100 4-H Clubs in Columbiana County which for a number of years had around 1,700 members and ranked second in Ohio.

He said the youth organization, now a year-around program, is centered on projects. Lower commended the Kiwanis Club for its annual outstanding 4-H member award presented locally.

Lower also reviewed methods of proper care of lawns, discussing soils, grasses, fertilizers, mowing and weed control. He was introduced by Rowland Smith, program chairman.

WHAT DOCTORS SAY ABOUT:

Better Health Through Knowledge

Armchair for Bad Heart

- Lemon Juice
- Gold Injections

Q. A member of my family recently had a heart attack. Much to everyone's surprise the doctor allowed the patient to sit in a chair the very next day. I have always heard that a heart victim needs complete rest. Am I right or wrong?

A. You are partly right but a little bit behind the times. Recently there has been considerable interest in the armchair treatment of patients who have certain types of heart attacks. Some of the top heart specialists let some patients sit in a chair at intervals beginning the first day or so after the attack. Certain patients allowed this privilege seem to get along better than those kept flat on their backs. Doctors have found that, generally speaking, the heart works harder when we are lying down than when we sit up. This does not mean that all heart patients should jump out of bed. It is for the doctor to decide which treatment method is best.

Q. Is it harmful to drink the juice of a lemon daily?

A. Yes, according to some medical investigators. It is reported that steady use of lemon juice has a tendency to cause tooth damage. An adequate amount of vitamin C can be had without resorting to the daily use of lemon juice.

Q. Please discuss gold injections for arthritis. Is such treatment expensive?—Mrs. M.

A. In general, the conservative treatment of arthritis includes rest, drugs, and physical measures prescribed by the physician. If these fail the doctor may try gold injections. Treatment for several months is often required before results are obtained. There is no sure cure for arthritis and gold therapy is no exception. Medical costs should be discussed with your doctor.

By JOHN CROSBY

The Revue Returns To Entertainment

One thing about this season, bless its little heart, is that it has produced a revue from out of nowhere. Suddenly, without prearrangement, everyone — well, almost everyone — is doing a sort of shorthand version of revue.

John Crosby

Art Carney has done several, in one of which he did the memorable parody on "Separate Tables" that was a small masterpiece; Sid Caesar has done a couple; and "Four" for Tonight," which brought together Tammy Grimes, Beatrice Lillie, Tony Randall and Cyril Ritchard, contributed a rather different one.

The great theatrical revues of my memory were "As Thousands Cheer," which may have been the best one ever done, and "The Bandwagon."

THE REVUE FORM was a string of satiric pearls strung on a single thread or theme which sometimes got stretched pretty far. The other night Art Carney gave us "The Best of Anything," a tight, pointed, satiric, brainy little revue which was strung around the idea of awards, this being the award-happiest nation in the universe.

I won't pretend it was all great, but it had moments of rare glee. It opened with Carney playing an investigating senator (with many of Sen. Symington's mannerisms) who becomes a wild ham when the TV cameras turn on him.

Then there was a satire on the Arthur Murray party and this was pretty heavy-handed for the simple reason that the Arthur Murray party is a satire on itself to start out with.

It's almost impossible to parody. However, the spectacle of Arthur tiptoeing in his celebrated lopsided walk behind his wife's back was worth the price of admission.

NEXT CAME a satire on Leonard Bernstein's program in which Mr. Bernstein's habit of asking a question and then answering it was neatly skewered.

"Why do I do this? I think anyone would have to be a musician to understand the fantastic amount of money I get for doing this. What am I doing now? I'm walking."

There also was a parody on "Room at the Top" which was funny and sharp-witted, a cute song called "Still I Won First Prize at the Fair"; a satire on the Miss America contest which again, regrettably, was not quite as satiric as the real article; and the show finished with a funny, almost burlesque-type sketch in which a man awarded a peace prize starts a mammoth brawl at the award dinner.

I MIGHT ADD that the program contained a couple of blackouts—and they, too, seem to be coming back. A good blackout sketch is almost a two-line joke—a sight gag that should leave you gasping with laughter—quick as a flash.

Tony Randall did a couple of good ones in "Four for Tonight." In each of these programs, ideas were the star of the show.

By ideas, I mean points of view that appear to have sprung out of the newspapers or the life around us rather than out of somebody else's program which seems to be the chief source of supply out in Hollywood.

Perhaps the revue form is coming back. On Broadway, "A Thurber Carnival," a sort of human revue, has just opened to universally pleasant notices. "La Plume de Ma Tante," the French revue, runs on and on.

REVUE had been pretty dead on Broadway since "Call Me Mister" in 1946, which was the last revue written around a single theme (the Army) of universal appeal.

Television was credited with a large share of the blame for killing revue in the theater because Sid Caesar could get on the air with a subject in a week where it might take a year to get a revue on Broadway. The revues that have crept back to Broadway have avoided, you'll notice, the topical in favor of the human.

Television still has a great source of supply in topical material. I wish they'd exploit it more often.

I DOUBT very much that television ever is going to get very far with self-reform so long as John Doerfer remains chairman of the Federal Communications Commission.

Doerfer always has been an apologist for the industry rather than the trustee of the public frequencies he was appointed to be.

Toodling around on a yacht owned by a broadcaster who is operating 13 radio and television stations that are supposedly under his jurisdiction is not a criminal offense but it certainly reveals a terrible blindness towards his responsibilities.

How are we to expect standards of high probity from an industry when the public official in charge of regulating that industry seems not to know what integrity is composed of?

Survey Poses 700 Questions On Local Data

A Chamber of Commerce committee is preparing to sift through mounds of data and statistics and make a round of enquiries to answer 700 questions about East Liverpool on a form furnished by the Ohio Department of Industrial and Economic Development, its contribution toward a statewide effort to encourage establishment of new industries.

The 14-page questionnaire, and others from communities of any size throughout Ohio, will go into the agency's files in Columbus to aid it in pin-pointing sites when he receives enquiries and to help in preparation of publications explaining the state's advantages.

The bulky questionnaire was turned over to a six-man delegation from the Chamber which attended an eight - county regional meeting called by the new agency Wednesday at Canton. Koder M. Collison, director of the economic and industrial bureau, explained the purpose of the questionnaire.

The group also saw a new film promoting the state, "Ohio, the Growth State." Promotion of Ohio will not be confined to seeking industry, Collison explained. Potential tourists will be told of the scenic and historic points, including state parks and forests, he said.

The Chamber's industrial development committee expects to meet soon to go over the questionnaire, titled "Ohio Community Survey," and make preparations for gathering the data that will be required for the answers.

The questionnaire covers 16 broad subjects, with a long series of questions on each. They are: Location, topography, climate, labor supply, present industry and trade, financial institutions, housing availability, local government, communications, transportation, educational facilities, churches, health services, fire and police protection, recreation and culture and utilities.

2 Motorists Penalized In State Patrol Cases

Two motorists were penalized Thursday afternoon by Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff on charges filed by the State Highway Patrol.

Mrs. Barbara A. Provost of Toronto was fined $10 and costs on a reckless driving charge filed as the aftermath of a collision Feb. 20 at the intersection of the Y. & O. Rd. and State Route 267. However, both the fine and the costs were suspended. The patrol alleged she crashed a stop sign and struck another car. She pleaded "no contest."

Richard R. Johnson of M.C. Route 22 was fined $10 and costs on a charge he crashed a stop sign Wednesday at the intersection of Routes 170 and Route 30. He pleaded guilty. The judge suspended the fine on payment of the $6 costs.

Major Disaster Averted As Train Hits Fuel Truck

MARIETTA, Ohio (AP) — Oil company workers, police and firemen averted what could have become a major disaster here Thursday after a train crashed into a tank truck loaded with highly flammable propane gas.

The crash occurred just off Ohio 7 along the Ohio river about a mile south of the city. The truck, carrying 1,700 gallons of the gas, was upset in a ditch, a hole punched in one of its 850-gallon tanks.

Both road and Ohio River traffic were halted as officials feared sparks from a cigarette or passing vehicle might ignite the explosive vapors. The crash scene was in a sparsely populated area.

Seven hours after the crash normal traffic was resumed.

Zane Meeks, of Louisa, Ky., driver of the Ashland Oil Co. truck, suffered minor injuries and was treated in a hospital. The Baltimore & Ohio freight train engineer, J. W. Miller of Zanesville, said a building near the tracks obscured his vision and he did not see the truck until it was too late.

Warden Plans Drive Against Dogs In Packs

Dog Warden Robert J. Croyle said today his principal objective in his new post will be to break up packs of dogs that have been roaming at will in East Liverpool, causing nuisances and property damage.

"Most of the calls I've received since assuming office have been concerned with packs of dogs," Croyle said. "When they travel in packs, dogs can cause far more complaints than the same number of individual animals."

Packs of dogs generally are made up of animals that have been abandoned or neglected by their owners to the point that they take to the streets in search of food, Croyle pointed out. When a family moves out of a neighborhood and leaves a pet behind, it's certain to join one of the roving packs, he added.

"I hope we never have anything like it in East Liverpool, but there was a case in St. Louis a few years ago in which a pack of 20 roving dogs attacked and killed a 2-year-old boy for food," Croyle said.

Although the warden is the city's dog control officer, the primary responsibility for controlling the animals is placed against the owners by state law, he pointed out. A dog's owner can be held legally responsible for property damage his pet commits, such as destroying shrubbery or digging up flowers, Croyle asserted.

"I'm not a catcher and destroyer of dogs," Croyle said. "I'm a dog-lover. My primary duty is to control dogs, protect the public against the ones that stray and protect the dogs against animal-haters." Croyle said investigation of some instances of allegedly "vicious dogs" has shown that the dog attacked after he was kicked or otherwise mistreated.

He warned again that the state law requires all dogs must be licensed, even those confined on the owners' premises in compliance with state statutes.

County Farm Agent Speaker For Kiwanis

Floyd Lower of Lisbon, Columbiana County agriculture agent, spoke about 4-H work and lawn care at a meeting of the Kiwanis Club Thursday at the Travelers Hotel.

Lower said there are some 100 4-H Clubs in Columbiana County which for a number of years had around 1,700 members and ranked second in Ohio.

He said the youth organization, now a year-around program, is centered on projects. Lower commended the Kiwanis Club for its annual outstanding 4-H member award presented locally.

Lower also reviewed methods of proper care of lawns, discussing soils, grasses, fertilizers, mowing and weed control. He was introduced by Rowland Smith, program chairman.

Armchair for Bad Heart

● Lemon Juice
● Gold Injections

Q. A member of my family recently had a heart attack. Much to everyone's surprise the doctor allowed the patient to sit in a chair the very next day. I have always heard that a heart victim needs complete rest. Am I right or wrong?

A. You are partly right but a little bit behind the times. Recently there has been considerable interest in the armchair treatment of patients who have certain types of heart attacks. Some of the top heart specialists let some patients sit in a chair at intervals beginning the first day or so after the attack. Certain patients allowed this privilege seem to get along better than those kept flat on their backs. Doctors have found that, generally speaking, the heart works harder when we are lying down than when we sit up. This does not mean that all heart patients should jump out of bed. It is for the doctor to decide which treatment method is best.

Q. Is it harmful to drink the juice of a lemon daily?

A. Yes, according to some medical investigators. It is reported that steady use of lemon juice has a tendency to cause tooth damage. An adequate amount of vitamin C can be had without resorting to the daily use of lemon juice.

Q. Please discuss gold injections for arthritis. Is such treatment expensive?—Mrs. M.

A. In general, the conservative treatment of arthritis includes rest, drugs, and physical measures prescribed by the physician. If these fail the doctor may try gold injections. Treatment for several months is often required before results are obtained. There is no sure cure for arthritis and gold therapy is no exception. Medical costs should be discussed with your doctor.

The Sports Bench

By BOB DUFFY
Sports Editor

Situation Looks Bright . . .

If Wednesday night's turnout at the City League championship game was any indication of things to come, East Liverpool's future in basketball looks bright.

Close to 800 fans attended the game, which was sponsored by the Little Potters League. With the townspeople showing a keen interest and backing this project, more than $800 was cleared.

With blacktopping the major expense, the total cost of the court will run close to $700.

Those attending the game also got a glimpse of the Little Potters in action and now may better understand the purpose of the league.

Actually it has two aims — first, to create recreation for the youth of East Liverpool, and second, to produce basketball talent which will some day represent ELHS.

The game was only play Wednesday, but plans are already under way for next year to hold another championship game for the City League and at the same time have the title game for the Little Potters League as a preliminary.

With the improved showing of the ELHS varsity squad this season and the support displayed Wednesday night, basketball is rising to a peak here once again.

Off The Beaten Track . . .

A former East Liverpool High student, Dick Risinger, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Risinger, 617 Blackmore St., is a member of the Ohio State fencing team which completed one of its most successful seasons this year and will take an 11-3 record into the Big Ten meet at Iowa this weekend.

ANOTHER East Liverpool grad is making a name in service basketball.

Clark Hager, who played some varsity and reserve basketball here, played on the Marine basketball team which finished its season undefeated.

In a 4th Naval District tourney, Clark was cited in the base paper for his performance. The article said "starting for the first time in the tournament, Hager was a real shot in the arm for the Marines, officials of the tournament all agreed that he did a terrific job against experienced players."

This 'N That In Sports . . .

Still an assistant at Bowling Green University, Gibson said the feeling around BG is that Jim Potts, who was quarterback here on that 1955 team, is the No. 1 prospect for the signal calling job.

WHILE in Pittsburgh Tuesday night we sat next to a sportswriter from Washington, Pa., and learned that Bill Laughlin, ex-Potter mentor, is considering quitting the coaching game.

—:—

WHAT are Midland's chances against Uniontown Saturday night? Not very good "if" the Leopards play like they did Tuesday.

However, if the Leopards can come up with the performance of which we know they are capable, Midland may wind up in the WPIAL finals next week.

APPLICATIONS for the Nonpareil Club's Junior basketball tourney are ready and may be obtained by writing P. O. Box 158, East Liverpool, Ohio.

—:—

OFFICIALS OF the Little Potters League appreciate the unsolicited help of Tom Cook, who voluntarily has served as a referee and in other capacities to help the league get off the ground. His spare time, which isn't much, he devotes to coaching the St. Aloysius basketball team.

Leopards Eye Semi-Finals On Saturday

Midland will have its hands full Saturday night when the Leopards take the floor against Uniontown.

Not only will Midland have to keep its eye on five men but Coach George Hamilton's team must watch 10.

The 10 represent the two-platoon system employed by Coach Abe Everhart of Uniontown. He has been using one unit for the first quarter then inserting a new quintet in the second period.

The first unit then returns to start the third quarter and then the "second team" takes over again in the fourth.

It paid off last Tuesday night in Uniontown's WPIAL tourney opener against Rostraver. Uniontown's first unit trailed, 18-13, at the end of the first quarter but the "shock troops" came in for the second period and produced 30 points to put Uniontown out in front by 15 points.

Saturday night's semi-final contest will get underway at 8 p. m. at the Pitt Fieldhouse. The winner of the Midland-Uniontown battle will gain the right to meet Farrell in the WPIAL finals on Tuesday, March 15.

Uniontown also will put a 23-game win streak on the line tonight against Midland. The Red Riders walked through Section 2 with 14 straight victories.

A balanced scoring attack will be another problem for Midland to stop Saturday night.

Uniontown's starting five, or its first unit, will probably consist of Jim Jones 6-foot-2, Joe Andrews 6-foot-5, Jim Curry 6-foot, Ernest Epps 5-foot-9 and John Unice 5-foot-7.

The second group includes Paul Krieger 6-foot-5, Mike Golden 6-foot-3, Don Yates 6-foot-1, Tom Morganosky 6-foot and John Moorman 5-foot-9.

Hamilton will no doubt stick with the same lineup which defeated South Union in the WPIAL opener Tuesday night.

Farrell Whips Stowe To Gain Finals Again

Coach Eddie McCluskey's team jumped into an early 14-5 lead at the end of the first quarter, but didn't really pull away until the second half when a 21-point third period produced a 45-30 margin.

LOS ANGELES (AP) —National Football League clubowners open a three-day business session today in an atmosphere of tension.

The new American Football League is seeking, through federal antitrust action, to keep the new Dallas Rangers, an NFL franchise, from operating in the Texas city..

An NFL official who declined use of his name said that if the Rangers are blocked by an injunction, pending a court test, they may become a traveling team next fall and play their 12 opponents on the road.

There were rumors Thursday that Walter Wolfner, owner of the Chicago Cardinals, might move his club to St. Louis, but Wolfner promptly denied them.

Bob Oates, pro football writer for the Los Angeles Examiner, expressed the belief that "Wolfner may not survive the Los Angeles meeting as a Chicago operator. The television issue is dominant in the NFL's effort to persuade the Cardinals to move from Chicago to St. Louis."

On today's agenda is the discussion of a new nationwide package television plan proposed by the new commissioner, Pete Rozelle. Some of the owners have pointed out that it would be more remunerative if Chicago Bear road games could be televised in Chicago and the State of Missouri could be opened up to telecasts by a pro team in St. Louis.

Also on the agenda is the development of a formula under which 36 NFL veteran players are to be transferred to the Dallas franchise.

Varsity Letters Presented

Bise, Seibert Honored At Wrestling Banquet

Two East Liverpool High School wrestlers were honored Thursday night at the annual banquet in the Travelers Hotel.

Jim Bise, a district champion this past season, was voted the team's most valuable wrestler and Don Seibert, a senior who improved rapidly towards the end of the season, was named "rookie-of-the-year."

Ralph Musuraca, president of the Blue and White Nonpareil Club, presented the most valuable award to Bise. The trophy is sponsored annually by the Nonpareil Club.

Bise was East Liverpool's lone representative in the state meet at Columbus last weekend. A 165-pounder, Bise won the district title at Bridgeport but lost his first match in the state meet.

Seibert, who wrestled in the 127-pound class, won the rookie award as a senior since he waited until his final year to come out for the sport.

Receiving letters were Bise, Dom Danzo, Frank Danzo, John Goemple, John Goodballet, Joe Hager, Joe Jackson, Glenn Mays, Bruce Reynolds, Seibert, Eugene Wolfe and managers Joe Matheny, Terry Kapp and Charles Allen.

Hardy Shines During Tribe's 3-Game Series

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Carroll Hardy took most-valuable-player honors in the Cleveland Indians' three-game intrasquad series that ended here Thursday with Red Kress' Apaches overcoming Jo-Jo White's Pimas 10-7 for the championship.

Outfielder Hardy rapped five singles and two doubles in 12 times at bat, scored six runs and stole a base to supplement his standout defensive playing for the Apache champs.

Slugging star Norm Cash was a close second. He drove in seven runs in the three games with a homer, triple and two doubles. But he left something to be desired at first base.

He left the field amid a round of applause from about 1,500 spectators.

Lemon developed a sore arm in 1957 and underwent an operation for the removal of bone chips in his elbow last fall. His arm was still weak the following spring.

In a comeback attempt last spring, Lemon decided to "hang 'em up" and was appointed to Manager Joe Gordon's coaching staff.

Gordon encouraged Lemon to test his arm this spring. "I felt all along that he could help us and I'm even more convinced now," said Joe.

The Indians face the San Francisco Giants in the first exhibition game Saturday. A sellout crowd of more than 5,000 is expected.

Friend Returns To Old Form In Spring Drill

By JIM KENSIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

The 29-year-old Pittsburgh right-hander worked four innings Thursday in spring training at Fort Myers, Fla. He faced the minimum 12 batters and struck out four in the Pirates' intrasquad game.

"I was pretty fast and had good breaking stuff," Friend said. "Boy, my arm felt good. I didn't expect it to be so loose and free this early but I felt fine. Just hope that it keeps up."

This, more or less, is what Friend has been saying ever since he finished 8-19 last season and the Pirates, after running second to Milwaukee in 1958, flopped to fourth.

The Los Angeles Dodgers and the San Francisco Giants, displayed heavy hitting in intrasquad games. Don Zimmer, in a bid to regain the starting Los Angeles shortstop job from Maury Wills, hit a bases-loaded homer at Vero Beach, Fla. Felipe Alou homered twice, Willie Mays and Andre Rodgers one each in the Giants' game at Phoenix, Ariz.

American League news centered on the Arizona automobile accident in which two Red Sox players were injured early Thursday, the signing of Detroit outfielder Charlie Maxwell for $26,000 and Mickey Mantle's appearance at the New York Yankees' camp.

Manager Bill Jurges said he wouldn't fine Marty Keough and Dave Hillman after investigating the circumstances under which they were out after the Red Sox' training curfew.

Keough's car skidded on the highway between Scottsdale and Mesa, and he suffered multiple bruises. Hillman required seven stitches in his head. The right-hander also had a bruised pitching arm.

Mantle and General Manager George Weiss are scheduled to meet today to talk contract terms. Weiss said he has no intention of yielding to Mantle who is resisting a $15,000 cut from his 1959 salary of $75,000.

Thomas, Bragg, Jones To Vie In Chicago Relays

CHICAGO (AP) —John Thomas, Don Bragg, Hayes Jones and a host of other track and field stars will compete tonight in the 24th annual Chicago Relays at the International Amphitheater.

Thomas, the 19-year-old sophomore from Boston University, has entered and won seven meets this year and set the world high jump mark of 7-feet-2 in the national AAU last month. He has not competed outside the Boston, New York and Philadelphia area this season and will be making his first appearance in the Midwest.

Bragg, the muscular former Villanova star, is aiming to become the first man to reach 16 feet in the pole vault. Bragg has the indoor record of 15-feet-9½ and will be competing against Bob Gutowski, the U.S. Marine lieutenant who holds the outdoor mark of 15-feet-9.

Jones will be defending his medal in the 60-yard high hurdles. Three times the eastern Michigan star has tied the world record of :07.0, twice in the Chicago Relays. Lee Calhoun, the 110-meter Olympic champion who has had little luck against Jones this season, also is entered in this event.

Situation Looks Bright . . .

If Wednesday night's turnout at the City League championship game was any indication of things to come, East Liverpool's future in basketball looks bright.

Close to 800 fans attended the game, which was sponsored by the Little Potters League. With the townspeople showing a keen interest and backing this project, more than $800 was cleared.

With blacktopping the major expense, the total cost of the court will run close to $700.

Those attending the game also got a glimpse of the Little Potters in action and now may better understand the purpose of the league.

Actually it has two aims — first, to create recreation for the youth of East Liverpool, and second, to produce basketball talent which will some day represent ELHS.

The game was only play Wednesday, but plans are already under way for next year to hold another championship game for the City League and at the same time have the title game for the Little Potters League as a preliminary.

With the improved showing of the ELHS varsity squad this season and the support displayed Wednesday night, basketball is rising to a peak here once again.

Off The Beaten Track . . .

WHILE football, basketball and baseball draw most of the attention, some find time to devote to the art of fencing.

A former East Liverpool High student, Dick Risinger, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Risinger, 617 Blackmore St., is a member of the Ohio State fencing team which completed one of its most successful seasons this year and will take an 11-3 record into the Big Ten meet at Iowa this weekend.

Risinger, a junior, had a perfect score in a quadrangular meet won by the Buckeyes.

ANOTHER East Liverpool grad is making a name in service basketball.

Clark Hager, who played some varsity and reserve basketball here, played on the Marine basketball team which finished its season undefeated.

In a 4th Naval District tourney, Clark was cited in the base paper for his performance. The article said "starting for the first time in the tournament, Hager was a real shot in the arm for the Marines, officials of the tournament all agreed that he did a terrific job against experienced players."

This 'N That In Sports . . .

Still an assistant at Bowling Green University, Gibson said the feeling around BG is that Jim Potts, who was quarterback here on that 1955 team, is the No. 1 prospect for the signal calling job.

WHILE in Pittsburgh Tuesday night we sat next to a sportswriter from Washington, Pa., and learned that Bill Laughlin, ex-Potter mentor, is considering quitting the coaching game.

—:—

WHAT are Midland's chances against Uniontown Saturday night? Not very good "if" the Leopards play like they did Tuesday.

However, if the Leopards can come up with the performance of which we know they are capable, Midland may wind up in the WPIAL finals next week.

APPLICATIONS for the Nonpareil Club's Junior basketball tourney are ready and may be obtained by writing P. O. Box 158, East Liverpool, Ohio.

—:—

OFFICIALS OF the Little Potters League appreciate the unsolicited help of Tom Cook, who voluntarily has served as a referee and in other capacities to help the league get off the ground. His spare time, which isn't much, he devotes to coaching the St. Aloysius basketball team.

—:—

Farrell Whips Stowe To Gain Finals Again

Coach Eddie McCluskey's team jumped into an early 14-5 lead at the end of the first quarter, but didn't really pull away until the second half when a 21-point third period produced a 45-30 margin.

Thomas, the 19-year-old sophomore from Boston University, has entered and won seven meets this year and set the world high jump mark of 7-feet-2 in the national AAU last month. He has not competed outside the Boston, New York and Philadelphia area this season and will be making his first appearance in the Midwest.

Bragg, the muscular former Villanova star, is aiming to become the first man to reach 16 feet in the pole vault. Bragg has the indoor record of 15-feet-9½ and will be competing against Bob Gutowski, the U.S. Marine lieutenant who holds the outdoor mark of 15-feet-9.

Jones will be defending his medal in the 60-yard high hurdles. Three times the eastern Michigan star has tied the world record of :07.0, twice in the Chicago Relays. Lee Calhoun, the 110-meter Olympic champion who has had little luck against Jones this season, also is entered in this event.

NCAA Regional Playoffs On Tap In Four Cities Tonight

Two Ohio Teams Wait Action At Louisville

By JACK CLARY
Associated Press Sports Writer

California takes another step in defense of its NCAA basketball crown in Seattle tonight but 15 other teams coveting the same title present their credentials as the regional playoffs begin in four cities.

Cal, ranked second nationally with a 25-1 record, meets Santa Clara (21-8), the West Coast Athletic Conference representative, in the first game of a doubleheader. At-large entry Oregon (18-9) plays sixth ranked Utah (25-2), the Skyline Conference champ, in the nightcap.

Cal's biggest threats for a second straight title—top-ranked Cincinnati and fifth-ranked West Virginia — also will be at work in Manhattan, Kan. and Charlotte, N.C., respectively, in trying to reach next week's finals at San Francisco. Tonight's winners meet Saturday night for the regional titles.

And the National Intercollegiate Athletic Assn. Tournament (NAIA) has its semifinals at Kansas City with three-time winner Tennessee A&I, Westminster (Pa) Southwest Texas and William Jewell going for the finalist berths.

The National Invitational Tournement (NIT) in New York, is idle but picks up with afternoon-night doubleheaders Saturday which includes a quarter - final matinee game between second-seeded Utah State and Villanova on national television.

Villanova edged Detroit 88-86 and Providence College beat Memphis State 71-70 in first round games in the NIT Thursday night.

Each NCAA regional doubleheader will have a member of The Associated Press All-America on display, led by Cincy's Big O—Oscar Robertson at the Midwest regional at Manhattan.

The other Midwest game pits Texas (18-6), the Southwestern Conference champ, against Kansas (19-8).

All-America Jerry West, with a 28.9 scoring mark, tops the show at Charlotte when his West Virginia Mountaineers meet high-flying New York Univ. (20-3) in the first game of an eastern regional doubleheader.

Big Ten champion Ohio State (21-3), and its All America soph Jerry Lucas play the nightcap of the Mideast regional at Louisville, Ky., against Ohio Valley Conference winner Western Kentucky (20-6). Ohio University (17-7) meets Southeastern Conference representative Georgia Tech (21-5) in the opener.

In the NAIA quarter-finals, Tennessee A&I defeated Wofford 75-60, Westminster (Pa) won over Hamline 62-59, Southwest Texas beat Grambling, 76-68 and William Jewell edged past New Mexico Highlands 67-62.

Wings Will Owe Rangers Credit If They're In Finals

BOSTON (AP) — Assuming Detroit grabs the final Stanley Cup playoff berth, only inches away, the Red Wings should credit assists to New York defensemen Harry Howell and Lou Fontinato.

Howell scored the tying goal and Fontinato made the final frustrating play Thursday in a 3-3 National Hockey League deadlock with the Boston Bruins.

Before the game Bruin Coach Milt Schmidt said his club would have to win its six remaining games to keep its playoff hopes alive. As a result of the tie, fifth-place Boston is eight points behind the Wings with five games to play.

Detroit can wrap up the playoff spot here Saturday in a televised tussle with the slumping Bostonians who have managed to win only one of their last eight starts.

Howell's 40-foot screened shot at 10:46 of the finale was the blow which staggered Boston. The Bruins pressed for a leading goal, pulled goalie Don Simmons in the waning moments and set up defenseman - forward Doug Mohns noted for one of the fastest slap shots in the game.

Fontinato got his forehead in the way of the wicked blast and the puck caromed off his brow high into the Boston Garden stands as the final buzzer sounded.

Pirates' Bob Friend Says Arm 'Feels Good'

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) —It looks as if the question marks on the Pittsburgh Pirate pitching staff may shake off their aches and pains this year.

Take it from one satisfied hurler, Bob Friend — who had a fine 22-14 record in 1958 but was 8-19 last year.

"Boy, my arm felt good," he remarked Thursday after tossing four innings of an intrasquad game. "I didn't expect it to be so loose and free this early."

And Manager Danny Murtaugh has high hopes for rookie Joe Gibbon, who has "looked mighty good."

"When the guys come back to the bench after batting, they say he has something," Murtaugh added.

Five Ohio Teams Lead ABC Classic

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Five Ohio quintets top the open team division as the American Bowling Congress' 57th annual championships round out their first week tonight, but their scores — like those of the leaders in singles, doubles and all-events — are unlikely to stand up long.

Four Wins Restaurant of Canton leads the open teams with 2939, and only twice since 1916 has a score under 3,000 won the big prize.

There was only one change in the singles Thursday, and that was at the top where Norbert McLaughlin, 31, a Rochester, N.Y. bowling alley manager, tied Sis Mantovani of Lawrence, Long Island, for first place. McLaughlin put together games of 205, 235 and 234 for 674.

The number of night games played in the National League rose from seven in 1935 to 298 in 1959.

Portsmouth Nips Marietta

Tech, Lakewood, Timken Advance On Tourney Trail

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Three of Ohio's classiest high school Class AA cage teams wheeled into the Northeastern District tournament finals Thursday night, and each needs one more win to gain a regional berth.

Cleveland East Tech, champion of the big schools the last two seasons and rated No. 2 in the final Associated Press poll behind Dayton Roosevelt, was a convincing 54-38 winner over Brecksville at Bedford. Each went into the fray with an 18-1 record.

The champs must get by Cleveland St. Ignatius (19-2) in Saturday's finals for a spot in the four-team Kent Regional next week.

Canton Timken ran its record to 21-0 as the third-ranked squad (20-2) at Canton. Timken meets Massillon (17-5) Saturday night, with the victor moving into the Columbus Regional.

Lakewood, eighth-ranked, bested Midview 69-53 at Berea for a 19-2 record, and goes against Elyria (19-3) in Saturday's finals, with a Toledo Regional spot hanging on the outcome.

The night's big victim was Marietta, ranked fifth in the final poll. The Marietta club, which had an 18-2 mark, was nosed out 76-75 by Portsmouth as the Trojans ran their record to 17-4.

Most of the other hot-shots see action tonight. Dayton Roosevelt (21-0) meets Dayton Fairview (15-6) at Dayton, and Xenia Central, fourth-ranked and 21-0, clashes with Dayton Belmont in the other semifinal scrap. Should Roosevelt and Xenia win, Saturday's final for a Cincinnati Regional berth would send the first and fourth teams in the state, each with a 22-0 record, against each other.

At Wellston, where heavy snow delayed Wednesday's Class A semifinals, the games were played Thursday night. Fairland eliminated Oak Hill 51-34, and Nelsonville ousted Hamden 73-55.

Newark's three-time Class AA state kings are still in the running at Columbus after nipping Columbus Linden 59-45. Grandview, an upset 50-49 victor over Washington Court House, meets the Wildcats Saturday for the regional berth.

Thursday night's games trimmed the 432-team Class AA contingent to 49 squads, and the 561-team Class A group to 46. Tonight's and Saturday's contests will cut each delegation to 16. The Class AA groups of four go to Columbus, Toledo, Kent and Cincinnati for next week's regionals, while the Class A squads play at Lima, Canton, Troy and Athens.

FRIDAY'S SCHEDULE

McMillan Only Sure Bet For Reds' Infield Post

The Reds have all question marks at first base, second and third this season. Only established face along the basepaths is shortstop Roy McMillan.

"The idea is to keep the batters to a minimum number of bases," he said.

"If it's my job to take the cutoff throw, say from left center, Billy (Martin) follows me out.

"In case the ball is thrown over my head he is there to keep the runner on second. . . .

Griffith Favored To Defeat Moyer

NEW YORK (AP)—Emile Griffith, a pro less than two years, today was rated a surprising 9-5 favorite over Denny Moyer, a West Coast youngster who fought and lost in a welterweight title fight.

The two well - regarded 147-pounders clash in the 10-round radio-television (NBC 10 p.m., EST) feature at Madison Square Garden tonight.

Griffith, in 21 months of fighting for cash, has posted a 16-1 record, including six kayos. His only loss was to middleweight Randy Sandy, an experienced middleweight.

Strong-Armed Pascual Pitches The Year Round

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — What big league pitcher has won 34 games since last opening day?

Senor Pascual won 17 with Washington, 15 in the Cuban Winter League and two more in the Caribbean World Series. After a two-week vacation he is back at work in the Senators' training camp.

They say pitching 12 months a year is bad for a fellow's arm. It hasn't worked out that way for Pascual. By the time the American League season ends in October he will have been pitching regularly for 31 consecutive months. His last real layoff was during the winter of 1957-58.

"I think maybe it is a good idea to rest in the winter every two or three years," said the 26-year-old right - hander. "Some times I get a little tired in July and August."

Pascual got so "tired" last July and August that he won 13 of his last 16 games. His six shutouts led both majors. He topped the American League with 17 complete games while building up a 17-10 won-lost record.

Until last year Pascual never had won more than eight games in any of five previous seasons in the majors. What happened?

"I learned to take may time," he said. "My curve is my best pitch when I can get it over for a srtike. In other years when they started to hit me I wanted to throw the fast ball. The harder they hit, the harder I tried to throw.

"Walter Beck (former coach, now a Washington scout) made me relax and take it easy."

Two Of Warren Stars To Enter Ohio State

WARREN, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State University is the choice of Paul Warfield and Willie Jones, rated two of the best all-around athletes ever developed at Warren Harding High School. They plan to enter there next fall.

There was only one change in the singles Thursday, and that was at the top where Norbert McLaughlin, 31, a Rochester, N.Y. bowling alley manager, tied Sis Mantovani of Lawrence, Long Island, for first place. McLaughlin put together games of 205, 235 and 234 for 674.

The number of night games played in the National League rose from seven in 1935 to 298 in 1959.

Portsmouth Nips Marietta

Tech, Lakewood, Timken Advance On Tourney Trail

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Three of Ohio's classiest high school Class AA cage teams wheeled into the Northeastern District tournament finals Thursday night, and each needs one more win to gain a regional berth.

Cleveland East Tech, champion of the big schools the last two seasons and rated No. 2 in the final Associated Press poll behind Dayton Roosevelt, was a convincing 54-38 winner over Brecksville at Bedford. Each went into the fray with an 18-1 record.

The champs must get by Cleveland St. Ignatius (19-2) in Saturday's finals for a spot in the four-team Kent Regional next week.

Canton Timken ran its record to 21-0 as the third-ranked squad (20-2) at Canton. Timken meets Massillon (17-5) Saturday night, with the victor moving into the Columbus Regional.

Lakewood, eighth-ranked, bested Midview 69-53 at Berea for a 19-2 record, and goes against Elyria (19-3) in Saturday's finals, with a Toledo Regional spot hanging on the outcome.

The night's big victim was Marietta, ranked fifth in the final poll. The Marietta club, which had an 18-2 mark, was nosed out 76-75 by Portsmouth as the Trojans ran their record to 17-4.

Most of the other hot-shots see action tonight. Dayton Roosevelt (21-0) meets Dayton Fairview (15-6) at Dayton, and Xenia Central, fourth-ranked and 21-0, clashes with Dayton Belmont in the other semifinal scrap. Should Roosevelt and Xenia win, Saturday's final for a Cincinnati Regional berth would send the first and fourth teams in the state, each with a 22-0 record, against each other.

Toledo Scott, seventh, puts its 18-2 record on the line against Van Wert (14-2) at Toledo. The victor meets the winner of the Archbold (19-0)-Toledo Libbey (16-5) game in Saturday's finals.

At Wellston, where heavy snow delayed Wednesday's Class A semifinals, the games were played Thursday night. Fairland eliminated Oak Hill 51-34, and Nelsonville ousted Hamden 73-55.

Newark's three-time Class AA state kings are still in the running at Columbus after nipping Columbus Linden 59-45. Grandview, an upset 50-49 victor over Washington Court House, meets the Wildcats Saturday for the regional berth.

Thursday night's games trimmed the 432-team Class AA contingent to 49 squads, and the 561-team Class A group to 46. Tonight's and Saturday's contests will cut each delegation to 16. The Class AA groups of four go to Columbus, Toledo, Kent and Cincinnati for next week's regionals, while the Class A squads play at Lima, Canton, Troy and Athens.

McMillan Only Sure Bet For Reds' Infield Post

On one angle alone — cutoff throws from the outfield — the team worked for two hours Thursday.

The Reds have all question marks at first base, second and third this season. Only established face along the basepaths is shortstop Roy McMillan.

These infield drills suit McMillan fine. The wiry Texan said poor ball handling on relays gives away runs.

"The idea is to keep the batters to a minimum number of bases," he said.

"If it's my job to take the cutoff throw, say from left center, Billy (Martin) follows me out.

"In case the ball is thrown over my head he is there to keep the runner on second. . . .

"He does one of two things—backs me up for a bad throw or tells me where to throw the ball after I get it from the outfielder.

Martin comes over and covers third base on the play.

"The first baseman is supposed to follow the runner at least as far as second. There is no need for him to remain on first because we figure the ball is good for a double anyhow."

Jimmy Dykes, now managing Detroit, said once, "I'll say the Roy McMillan I saw day in and day out during my years with the Cincinnati Reds was as fine a shortstop as I've ever seen, anywhere, anytime.

"I've never seen anyone who could go into the hole between short and third, field the ball and throw the runner out like Roy does."

Injuries hit Mac in 1959. A broken hand June 14 kept him out of the lineup until July 2. A broken clavicle Aug. 11 put him out for the season.

But Manager Fred Hutchinson knows McMillan is a consistent player, hitting and fielding. That's why Mac has been tabbed the leadoff man this year.

Griffith Favored To Defeat Moyer

NEW YORK (AP)—Emile Griffith, a pro less than two years, today was rated a surprising 9-5 favorite over Denny Moyer, a West Coast youngster who fought and lost in a welterweight title fight.

The two well - regarded 147-pounders clash in the 10-round radio-television (NBC 10 p.m., EST) feature at Madison Square Garden tonight.

Moyer, now 20, was only 19 when he dropped a 15-round decision to welterweight champion Don Jordan in a title fight.

Griffith, in 21 months of fighting for cash, has posted a 16-1 record, including six kayos. His only loss was to middleweight Randy Sandy, an experienced middleweight.

Strong-Armed Pascual Pitches The Year Round

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — What big league pitcher has won 34 games since last opening day?

Remember they play ball in the winter, too.

Senor Pascual won 17 with Washington, 15 in the Cuban Winter League and two more in the Caribbean World Series. After a two-week vacation he is back at work in the Senators' training camp.

They say pitching 12 months a year is bad for a fellow's arm. It hasn't worked out that way for Pascual. By the time the American League season ends in October he will have been pitching regularly for 31 consecutive months. His last real layoff was during the winter of 1957-58.

"I think maybe it is a good idea to rest in the winter every two or three years," said the 26-year-old right - hander. "Some times I get a little tired in July and August."

Pascual got so "tired" last July and August that he won 13 of his last 16 games. His six shutouts led both majors. He topped the American League with 17 complete games while building up a 17-10 won-lost record.

Until last year Pascual never had won more than eight games in any of five previous seasons in the majors. What happened?

"I learned to take may time," he said. "My curve is my best pitch when I can get it over for a srtike. In other years when they started to hit me I wanted to throw the fast ball. The harder they hit, the harder I tried to throw.

"Walter Beck (former coach, now a Washington scout) made me relax and take it easy."

The judge imposed a fine of $10 and costs on Lorin Howard Jr., 24, of Boyd St., Dixonville, who pleaded guilty to improper passing. Howard's car was involved in a mishap with an auto driven by Lawrence Howell, 45, of 1208 Riverview St., police said.

West Point Man Hurt In Route 30 Collision

George Clark, 49, of West Point suffered a minor laceration when his car sideswiped another on Route 30 about a half mile west of Lisbon Thursday night at 7:18, the State Highway Patrol reported.

Officers said Clark lost control and his auto skidded against the side of an oncoming car operated by Raymond Moore, 35, of 218 Pritchard Ave., Lisbon, causing heavy damage to the sides of both vehicles.

Clark received a laceration over the ear, but was not treated by a physician. He was charged with driving while intoxicated.

Your Income Tax

Itemizing Of Deductions May Help

(Uncle Sam grants every taxpayer a deduction of about 10 per cent of his income at tax filing time. In many cases, however, it pays to itemize expenses and donations to qualify for a larger deduction. This article, the last of five on "Figuring Your Income Tax", will help you decide which method is best for you.)

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Staff Writer

It may be worth the trouble—before filling your 1959 income tax return — to list all your possible deductions to see if you have enough to bring down your tax.

Everyone filing a return gets a deduction of about 10 per cent from his income for personal expenses, without asking and whether or not his expenses ran that much. You don't have to itemize anything.

This is called the standard deduction but the limit is $1,000 for a single person or a couple filing jointly. A couple filing separately can't claim any more than $500 each.

But if your deductible expenses ran more than 10 per cent, then itemize so you can claim them all. You can itemize on form 1040 and on the new form, 1040W. You can't itemize if you use form 1040A.

FOR INSTANCE: you can deduct for union dues, dues in professional societies, alimony payments by the person making them, fees to employment agencies, club dues if they are needed for business reasons, and books or newspapers bought for use in your profession.

If you were home ill only seven days or less, your pay is taxable. If you were home sick more than seven days you can deduct for every day thereafter up to $100 a week.

If you were home because of injury, or were hospitalized for as little as one day, you can start excluding sick pay from the first day of absence without waiting out the seven-day period which applies to illness at home.

Since sick pay is really an exclusion, not a deduction, you claim it on line 3 of form 1040W or line 6 of form 1040. You can't claim it on the tabulating punchcard form, 1040A.

People who get dividend income from stocks in domestic corporations can exclude the first $50 they receive. You can exclude $100 if your wife owns the stock jointly with you and files a joint return with you.

THEN THERE'S something called dividend credits. This means: you can deduct 4 per cent of what's left of your dividends from your tax — after deducting the $50 or $100 just mentioned — on forms 1040 and 1040W.

Retired people getting a pension or annutiy had better read carefully the rules on page 12 of the instruction sheet. In some cases pension income from an employer is excludable. Sometimes only part is. It's too complex to go into here.

Interest on your house mortgage; on a life insurance policy if you pay the interest in cash; delinquent taxes; your personal note to a bank or individual; or interest on personal property like automobiles or radios bought on the installment plan.

You can deduct for contributions to charitable, religious, educational, scientific, or literary organizations. For example: Community Chest, Salvation Army, churches, Red Cross, cancer and heart associations, tuberculosis societies, and gifts but not dues to the YMCA, YWCA, YMHA, YWHA, American Legion, and societies for prevention to cruelty to children or animals.

Generally, contributions cannot exceed 20 per cent of your income but 30 per cent is allowed if one-third of your contributions went to churches and tax-exempt hospitals and educational institutions.

YOU CAN deduct state income taxes, personal property taxes, real estate and state gasoline taxes (but not federal gasoline taxes), auto license and registration fees (but not auto inspection fees except as a business expense where the auto is used to produce income), poll taxes, and most retail sales taxes.

Federal Social Security payments by you as a worker, federal income taxes, estate and gift taxes, state inheritance taxes, refuse collection taxes, fishing and hunting license fees, dog licenses, federal excise taxes on theater tickets, furs, jewelry, luggage, telephones, and air, rail or bus tickets.

You can claim them only if you itemize them on forms 1040 or 1040W and only that much of your medical expenses which is more than 3 per cent of your adjusted gross income.

Cost of medicines and drugs can be included in such expenses only to the extent they exceed 1 per cent of your adjusted gross income.

If you wife was 65 or older, the 3 per cent limit does not apply. But in this case you had better consult your instruction sheet or the Internal Revenue Service.

EXPENSES for your education are deductible, but only if it was to improve or help you keep up with the skills in your job. You can't deduct if the education was to help you get a better job or for personal reasons.

You can also deduct the net amount of actual property loss from accidents, fire, storm, or theft. There may be business or non-business losses. Once again: for this kind of information consult your instruction sheet.

There are certain exemptions for the care of children and certain other dependents. For example:

You can deduct up to $600 — if you are widowed, divorced, or legally separated — for money spent to care for dependents who are under 12 or are physically or mentally unable to care for themselves. Read your instruction sheet for details.

Board To Review Foster Parents' Bid To Keep Girl

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — Mr. and Mrs. Richard Combs' fight to keep their gifted 4-year-old foster child will be reviewed by the state Board of Child Welfare next Thursday.

F. Morse Archer of Camden, board president, said he has been asked to reconsider the decision to shift Alice Marie's temporary home to a permanent one with more emphasis on books and less on television.

Edwin Hann Jr., acting director of the state Child Welfare Bureau, said a final decision probably would await the outcome of court action launched by the Combs couple.

But he told a newsman that in view of the two-year lapse between the transfer decision and the current furor, the Old Bridge couple's chance to keep Alice permanently might be looked at again.

This is often the question when a customer sees the shelves in our pharmacy. Row on row on row of bottles, boxes, canisters, tubes, vials, jars . . . about 2,000 items in all. Good question. Who are they for? The answer, of course, is you. Say you go to a physician and he writes a prescription which you bring to us to be filled. We can't tell what the ailment will be—there are thousands, and we don't know what medication the doctor will prescribe.
